VILLA BOASTS HE WILL BE DICTATOR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., July 13.—"Within thirty days I, Francisco Villa, will be dictator of Mexico with a victorious army at my back.

"Don Venustiano Carranza, stripped of his power and deserted by his generals, will be deposed."

This defiant boast of the Mexican bandit leader was transmitted today to his agents on the border. Through them it reached American officials and was regarded of sufficient importance to be forwarded to Washington. It was a flat defiance of the United States government. General Pershing's punitive expedition was sent into Mexico to "get" Villa. Its work was balked by the attack on American soldiers at Parral. Now Villa proclaims his strength.

Whether Villa will be able to carry out his boast no one can tell but recent efforts of the Carranza government to cultivate the good will of the United States are regarded in border circles as evidence that the de facto government is not overly confident that it can carry out its pledge to deal with Villa and his bandits.

Every report that has reached El Paso and other points along the border during the past twenty-four hours indicated that Villa has been successful in all engagements with the Carranzista army since he began his latest activities. With the fear that he seems to be able to inspire in the hearts of the Mexican peons he has gathered around him an army today that is estimated to number between 5,000 and 8,000 men. A late report is that 3,000 Yaqui Indians from the Sonora district are on their way to join the outlaw's forces.

Yesterday the Mexican officials only reported that General Garcia had sallied from Parral to drive back the Villistas. Today the Mexican officials maintained a discreet silence and this was taken as a sure sign that Garcia had been whipped. The same thing occurred within the past week when 3,000 Carranzista cavalry was sent to defeat General Calixto Contreras. So far as official information is concerned that force completely disappeared.

American government agents today came into possession of additional evidence that seems to prove that Villa is being aided by the treason of Carranza officers. One unconfirmed rumor that came to the border was that General Jacinto Trevino had been ordered relieved of his command at Chihuahua city, had bargained with rebel leaders and had gone over to Villa's army. Trevino has been known for a long time as a jealous rival of Minister of War Obregon. He is said to have been swayed by the idea that Obregon was using Carranza only as a figurehead and was only awaiting a suitable time to throw aside the mask and come out himself as the ruler of Mexico.

Trevino was not alone in this thought. It is shared by other Mexican leaders and American veterans in Mexican affairs. Don Venustiano Carranza himself is said to fear Obregon.

Trevino several weeks ago, according to reports of secret service agents, began plotting to upset Obregon's progress. It was about this time that Canuto Reyes and Calixto Contreras "accepted amnesty" with great ostentation. Reyes and Contreras are old Villa chieftains.

The course of Mexican affairs thus running may necessitate some change in the councils on in Washington, but apparently it will not change the plans for a complete border patrol which are going into effect. Motor trucks loaded with militiamen roll through El Paso for the open country east and west where the men are being posted on border patrol duty. The crowded trucks reflect the eagerness with which the state guardsmen from all parts of the country hail the prospect of active service.

From Columbus comes word that citizens in the San Simon valley district near the New Mexico-Arizona-Mexican boundary lines want cavalry to guard them. Raiders are reported to have assembled in threatening numbers through the valley and the citizens fear another Mexican raid across the border.

Raids and looting by renegades and Carranzista soldiers are reported by refugees from the Sonora district. The refugees from that district are in deep distress and starvation is one of the problems with which they have to contend.

FEDERAL EXPERTS FIGHT EPIDEMIC

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 13.—All red tape was cut completely here today to enable the United States bureau of public health, with its wonderful facilities, to go to the aid of the New York health department in the fight against infantile paralysis.

As a result, under the direction of Surgeon General Victor Blue, the assistant surgeon general, Dr. W. C. Rucker, has set aside all other work to direct the government's end of the campaign.

"We are in this fight to a finish" declared Dr. Rucker. "And we are not afraid of the end. One thing ought to be made clear to the people by the newspapers. There is absolutely no cause for a panic. Real and serious as the situation is, all fear should be eliminated.

"The psychology of fear plays a big part in every epidemic.

"We can only take sensible precautions in the face of what we do not know. We all know that it is important to keep clean. There is no need to go to ridiculous extremes.

"The one big thing I wish all would bear in mind is the advice to the people to keep cool—I mean cool-headed. You will always find that in such a case as this there will be a reaction.

"I believe that a panic in the congested districts will reflect itself in the disease. Children are cooped up who ought to be out. Crowds are to be avoided, of course, in the districts where the malady is prevalent especially, but that does not mean that children in these summer days should be kept in closed rooms. There is reason in all things. Infantile paralysis is not the only thing from which little ones die—we must remember that.

"This government and all the facilities at the command of the government will be used in aid of this fight, and we'll win it. That goes without saying. Let the people do their part. Keep cool, be cheerful, and beyond all else, let not fear enter the mind. There must be no panic. There is no reason for one."

DON'T LET IT OCCUR AGAIN IN 38 YEARS

This was the Advice Recorder Lang Gave Joseph Loftus, Who Was Arrested For Being Drunk—Other Cases in Court.

Joseph Loftus, who said he was thirty-eight years old, and had never been arrested before, was arraigned in recorder's court this morning before Recorder Lang and pleaded guilty to public intoxication. He pleaded for another chance and the court in granting the request advised Loftus not to get arrested again in thirty-eight years.

"I won't, your honor," said Mr. Loftus earnestly as he left the court room. He was arrested by Policeman Kuehn.

Fred Hecht is still in jail and had not sobered up sufficiently to be arraigned before the bar of justice today. He was arrested the other day by Policeman Hess, who found him so drunk that he was unable to care for himself. It was expected that Hecht would be arraigned on Wednesday, but he was too drunk. It is expected that he will be sober by Friday.

Several small boys were summoned to court this morning at the request of Mr. Morse of Foxhall avenue, who claimed that the lads had stolen goods from his building. The boys acknowledged that they had taken some dry goods with which they had made a tent, but they had returned it later. They denied they had stolen the amount of goods claimed by Mr. Morse. Mr. Morse did not care to swear out a warrant for the boys' arrest.

Bulletin on Raspberries.

The number of careful breeders of fruit or students of plant breeding is increasing very rapidly just at present, so many persons will be interested in Bulletin No. 417 of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station (Geneva, N. Y.) This announces some of the results secured and principles revealed in twenty-five years' work in breeding raspberries. The work has proven the hybrid nature of the purple raspberry, clarified some points in regard to the inheritance of color, size, etc., and marked some varieties as good parents, others as poor ones, facts not always evident from the behavior of the varieties themselves. Like other station bulletins, this one will be sent free to any one who makes known his interest.

No Children at Circus.

Although the big Barnum & Bailey circus will be allowed to show in Newburgh today, the health authorities have prohibited children under 16 years of age from attending. In regard to children attending theaters, Sunday schools and other assemblages, the Newburgh authorities have taken the same precautions as the Kingston board of health, in barring children under 16 years of age until the present epidemic of infantile paralysis is controlled.

SCHOONMAKER BOY BROKE HIS PAROLE

Was Arrested Last Year on Charge of Forging Grocery Orders and Placed on Probation—Arrested for Failure to Report.

Last November fourteen year old Daniel Schoonmaker of No. 25 Wilbur avenue, was arrested charged with forging grocery orders and collecting the groceries at the store of Charles Ewel on Cedar street. It was claimed that he was given money to go to the store to purchase articles, and instead he kept the money and made out an order for the groceries and signed a neighbor's name to it. It was discovered when the neighbor went to pay the bill.

At that time the boy was given another chance and was placed on probation to report to the probation officer, and also on his promise to pay the grocer the amount of money which he had secured by the forged orders. This he has failed to do, and Recorder Lang on Wednesday issued a warrant for his arrest, which was served by Policeman Simpson.

This morning the boy was arraigned before Recorder Lang, and as the lad's parents were not present in court the case was held open until Friday morning.

MAN-EATING SHARK ON JERSEY COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 13—Bathing beaches along the New York and New Jersey coast were kept under close scrutiny today by armed guards as the result of the fatal foray of a man-eating shark at Matawan, N. J., yesterday where a man and a boy were killed and another boy was badly injured.

The body of Lester Stillwell, one of the victims, has not been recovered and is beleived to have been eaten. The other person killed was Stanley Fisher, whose body was badly mangled.

Joseph Ralph Dunn, who was attacked by the man-eater, is in the hospital at Matawan fighting desperately for his life.

Fisherman worked all night stringing nets across the mouth of Matawan Creek, in which the tragedy occurred and it is possible that the fish may be trapped. The scene of the killings occurred 16 miles from the ocean, the shark having passed through the lower part of New York harbor, Raritan Bay and Matawan Creek to get at its victims.

WAS MR. MOON COLLECTING SHOES

He Was Arrested Charged With Stealing a Pair of Shoes From Uptown Shoe Dealer, Who Claimed Mr. Moon Had Taken Three Pairs.

Joseph Moon was arrested on Wednesday afternoon by Policeman O'Neil, on the complaint of Morris Munitz of No. 83 North Front street, who claimed that Mr. Moon had taken a pair of shoes from his store.

This morning Mr. Moon was arraigned before Recorder Lang, and confessed that he was drunk the day before, and had no recollection of taking the shoes, but as they were found on him he must have taken them.

Mr. Munitz, who made the complaint, was present in court and alleged that Mr. Moon had not only taken one pair of shoes, but three pairs, and all of them were number sixes. According to his story Mr. Moon came into the store on Monday afternoon and walked out with a pair of shoes. Then Mr. Munitz decided to watch him. He said that Wednesday afternoon Mr. Moon came in again, and walked out with still another pair of shoes.

Wether Mr. Moon was collecting shoes for the soldiers or himself was not made clear.

Recorder Lang questioned Mr. Munitz closely about the shoe transaction, and asked him why he had not stopped Mr. Moon on Monday when he walked out of the store with a pair of shoes, as claimed. Mr. Munitz said that he did not like to say anything to Mr. Moon, but when it came to taking three pairs of shoes he had thought something had better be done.

Mr. Munitz said he was not anxious to press the charge if Mr. Moon would pay for the shoes.

Mr. Moon denied vigorously that he had taken three pair of shoes, and Recorder Lang held the case open until Friday to give Mr. Munitz a chance to produce more proof in support of his contention.

STONE RIDGE AUTOPSY.

Death of Child Not Due to Infantile Paralysis.

An autopsy was performed Wednesday afternoon by Dr. C. F. Sherman of Stone Ridge and Dr. Raymond Sanderson, county bacteriologist, on the body of the five year old daughter of Lorin Wilklow of Stone Ridge, who died Wednesday morning. The autopsy was for the purpose of ascertaining whether the child's death was due to infantile paralysis, and was followed by a bacteriologist examination by Dr. Sanderson at the county laboratory. As the result both of the autopsy and the bacteriological examination, Dr. Sanderson ascertained that death was not due to infantile paralysis but resulted from acute meningitis.

Authorities Find Story a Fake.

Busy Street Liars in Poughkeepsie and Newburgh have had rumors going for several days as to an alleged attack by guardsmen upon a young woman visiting Camp Whitman. All of the details were complete even to the taking of the supposed victim to Vassar Hospital. District Attorney Aldrich and Sheriff Conklin made a careful investigation of the yarn and were unable to find the slightest foundation for it.

DEUTSCHLAND TO SAIL VERY SOON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—When will the merchant submarine Deutschland leave this port for its dash to the other side?

This was the main question discussed here today. There were indications that plans were afoot to rapidly load the vessel and slip her out speedily on her way back to Germany. No one in authority would say when she would depart. The unloading was finished early today.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, will come here today to congratulate Captain Paul Koenig and to inspect the Deutschland. Mayor Preston will give a dinner tonight to Captain Koenig and his officers.

"There were many indications today at the Deutschland's pier that she is to make an early departure. Rush orders had been given for nearly 300 barrels of oil.

Another significant move occured when the tug Timmins, which maintained the two weeks vigil off the caps was brought over from the Rhode shipyard, where she had been docked for repairs. She poked her nose into the log boom at the south end of the basin where the submarine lies, and shortly afterward a motor boat of the Eastern Forwarding Company was hurried to her side. The crew of the motor boat released a section of the log boom and the Timmins swung into the basin, turned about facing bow outward and tied up next to the end of the Deutschland.

The Deutschland showed some four feet additional out of the water than before the unloading commenced on Tuesday, and her draft was less than 11 feet when the last case of dye was discharged. The ship's rise revealed that the estimates of her size have been exaggerated and instead of being more than 300 feet long, and 30 feet wide her width is less than 25 feet and her length not more than 250 feet.

ENFORCING LAW OF SAFETY FIRST

This morning Arthur W. Wynn was arrested by Policeman Walker for running his automobile past a trolley car on the left hand side of the road while passengers were being discharged from the car. This was on Broadway near the West Shore crossing.

Wynn was later arraigned before Recorder Lang, and pleaded guilty to the charge. He said he did not know the traffic regulations in this city, but in Poughkeepsie he had often run by a trolley car on the left hand side, and was never arrested.

Recorder Lang in imposing a fine of $5 said that might be true, but when an autoist was caught doing so in Kingston he was always arrested.

Mr. Wynn paid the fine.

ONLY THREE REGIMENTS LEFT IN CAMP WHITMAN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Camp Whitman, N. Y., July 13.—Because there are only four auto trucks available to move its baggage and equipment, the departure of the Third Regiment has been delayed for several hours.

The regiment was to have left its camp for the Green Haven station at 9 o'clock and was all packed up and ready to start at 6:30 but will not get away before noon at the earliest. Col. Edgar S. Jennings had reveille sounded at 4:30 this morning, an hour earlier than usual, so as to have the men ready for an early start, only to find that it was impossible to get enough trucks to move his baggage before noon.

The regiment consists of three companies from Rochester and one each from Geneva, Syracuse, Oswego, Niagara Falls, Medina, Olean, Hornell, Elmira and Auburn. It is routed via Easton, Philadelphia, Washington, St Louis and Dallas to Pharr, Tex. Ten days' rations are being carried by order of Col. Jennings.

The departure of the Third leaves only three full regiments in camp, viz: The First, Tenth and Sixty-fifth, in addition to the four hospital units and one battalion of the Twenty-second Regiment. The latter will leave tomorrow and the Fourth Ambulance Company and the Second Field Hospital on Saturday.

TRAINED NURSES ARE EMPLOYED

Their Duties Consist of Making Daily Inspections of Visiting Children to Ascertain If They Have Infantile Paralysis—No Cases Reported.

Two trained nurses have been employed by the board of health to assist Dr. Frank A. Johnston, the health officer, in making daily inspections of children visiting in Kingston from out of town to ascertain if they are afflicted with infantile paralysis. The two nurses are Miss Mary Van Vliet of the Benedictine Sanitarium, and Miss Jennie Keating of the Kingston City Hospital, and they have taken up their duties, one nurse starting to work on Wednesday, and the other today.

So far there have been listed with the health officer over 200 children from out of town who are spending the summer in Kingston. These children will be examined daily by the nurses and their temperatures taken. Any suspicious case found will be immediately reported to Health Officer Johnston and steps taken to isolate the patient. In this way it is expected that an epidemic will be promptly checked.

The action of employing two nurses was taken at the meeting of the board of health Tuesday evening. It was found impossible by Dr. Johnston and Dr. Harold Clarke, who is assisting him in the work, to do it successfully without some assistance.

No new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in town, and it is hoped that no new cases will develop. Dr. Johnston and his assistants will use every effort to keep the city free of the dread disease, and should be heartily assisted by every resident in Kingston, who can aid the board in reporting promptly the arrival of any children from out of town.

The Y. M. C. A. today has closed the big swimming pool to children under sixteen years of age, and they will not be allowed to use the pool until all danger from infantile paralysis is past. The association has notified Dr. Johnston of the action taken, and it meets with his hearty approval.

Dr. Smith of the state board of health was in town today conferring with Dr. Johnston and he commended the preventive work that has been adopted in Kingston, and said that the city had taken the right method of crushing out any incipient epidemic of the dread disease. He had no suggestions to offer, as the work being done already by the health officer met with his approval.

The two nurses employed by the board are both highly efficient and were recommended by local physicians.

Grange Hears Fine Recital.

The piano recital given by Miss Trueman, pupil of Harry P. Dodge, at her home in Katrine, for the benefit of the Katrine Grange, on Monday evening, was a great success both musically and socially. While Miss Trueman played the entire program with marked musical ability, especial mention should be made of her admirable rendition of the Mozart Rondo in A Minor, wherein both the technique and interpretation of the musician were most excellent. This was followed by a group of Chopin numbers, Etude, Op. 25, No. 7; Nocturne Op. 9, No. 2; and Impromptu in F-sharp. The Impromptu was especially well rendered. The last group included the Liszt Etude in D-flat; "Arabesque" by De Bussy, another most enjoyable number; and Tarantella" by Mills. Miss Trueman is indeed to be congratulated upon her ability to give an evening of such musical pleasure because of the excellence of her musicianship.

RED CROSS FUNDS FOR THE SOLDIERS

How and Where to Contribute Money to Aid Soldiers and Their Families—Cash or Check May be Left at Any Bank.

If you want to help the soldiers and their families there is nothing quite so good to give as cash.

Any bank in the city will take your money and turn it over to the Red Cross, by whom its receipt will be acknowledged in the newspapers.

If you want to contribute to the support of the soldiers' families only, say your money is for the Civilian Relief Committee. If you cannot remember the name of the committee just say "This is for Mrs. Chandler's committee," and you will be understood.

If you want to contribute to the comfort of the soldiers in camp, say it is for the Military Relief Committee. If you forget the name of the committee just say "This is for Mrs. Meagher's committee."

If you want your contributions divided equally between the two committees just say "This is for the Red Cross."

There is no "rake-off" from what you give. Every cent goes to the Red Cross and is spent by the Red Cross for the soldiers and their families. Nobody gets a salary for doing the work.

Military Relief Prompt.

The prompt and very generous response to Mrs. Meagher's appeal for money, material and help in making the bed sacks, etc., has resulted in a most gratifying manner. Sufficient money has been contributed for the purchase at wholesale of enough material for the forty bed cases, and furthermore the Fuller shirt factory is today making, packing and sending the same as their contribution. Those who contributed money for this work were Mrs. Myron Teller, Mrs. John Forsyth, Dr. E. E. Norwood, Mrs. Carrie Burhans, Mrs. William C. Shafer, Mrs. Arthur R. King, Mrs. Wonderly's Sunday school class, Miss Sarah Godkins, Mrs. Packer, Mrs. Clarence Hendricks, Mrs. J. M. Schaeffer, Mrs. M. A. Meagher, Mrs. L. Relyea, Mrs. R. Dawe, Teller & Tappen. The amounts contributed will be posted in the report of the Military Relief Fund as given out by Treasurer J. M. Schaeffer.

Rose, Gorman & Rose have also sent to Mrs. Meagher for Company M one dozen suits of underwear and Charles S. Wood has contributed four pairs of shoes. Mrs. Meagher and committee were at the armory this afternoon.

One more opportunity of a specific sort is offered to assist Company M, and that is possible for persons visiting Camp Whitman by auto. One of the most serious problems is the getting of supplies to Camp Whitman, for even with the assistance of the Red Cross, a certain amount of carting is necessary and costs money. So if persons contemplating visiting the camp by auto would be willing to carry with them some portion of the supplies turned in at the armory they would be making a very real contribution to the cause. Such persons should communicate with Mrs. Meagher, 670-J, telling her of their willingness to so assist, the time of their departure, and the amount that they will be able to carry, in order that Mrs. Meagher may have the same ready at the armory.

St. John's Young Folks Attention.

Owing to the careful and proper ruling of the board of health, the boy choir of St. John's Episcopal Church will be unable to furnish music for the church services for the present. Therefore, Mr. Dodge, the organist, would ask that all of the young people of the church, in fact all who sing, are over the age of sixteen years, act as a volunteer choir for the three remaining Sundays in July. In order to do this, all who are willing to give this service for the church are asked to meet at the St. John's parish house on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for a rehearsal. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of those in the church or congregation who sing.

Control of Plant Lice.

Plant lice, or aphides, are becoming very destructive pests on farms and fruit plantations, particularly in apple orchards, and the Station at Geneva has been working for several years on the problem of their control. In Bulletin No. 415 recent studies are discussed, which show the character of the injuries, directly to the fruit and indirectly through effect on foliage, the extent of the damage, the species concerned in the work and the materials, methods and time of application which give best results in treatment. The most satisfactory combination, uniting safe use on foliage and effectiveness against the insects, was found to be three-fourths pint of 40 per cent nicotine solution to one hundred gallons of lime-sulphur solution at winter strength, for bud treatment, used as the buds are spreading at the tips. Full details of studies and treatment are given in the bulletin, which will be sent free in response to a post card request.

HORNED LARK

(Otocoris alpestris)

Length, about seven and three-fourths inches. The black mark across the breast and the small, pointed tufts of dark feathers above and behind the eyes distinguish the bird.

Range: Breeds throughout the United States (except the South Atlantic and Gulf states) and Canada; winters in all the United States except Florida.

Habits and economic status: Horned larks frequent the open country, especially the plains and deserts. They associate in large flocks, are hardy, apparently delighting in exposed situations in winter, and often nest before snow disappears. The flight is irregular and hesitating, but in the breeding season the males ascend high in air, singing as they go, and pitch to the ground in one thrilling dive. The preference of horned larks is for vegetable food, and about one-sixth of this is grain, chiefly waste. Some sprouting grain is pulled, but drilled grain is safe from injury. California horned larks take much more grain than the eastern birds, specializing on oats, but this is accounted for by the fact that oats grow wild over much of the state. Weed seeds are the largest single element of food. The insect food, about 20 per cent of the whole, includes such pests as May beetles and their larvae (white grubs), leaf beetles, clover-leaf and clover-root weevils, the potato-stalk borer, nut weevils, billbugs, and the chinch bug. Grasshoppers are a favorite food, and cutworms are freely eaten. The horned larks, on the whole, may be considered useful birds.

Made the Most of Her Time.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the pianist, used to tell the story of a pupil who came to Harold Bauer and asked his terms for lessons. After the fourth lesson he said to her: "Why, madame, do you always bring rhapsodies, etudes, swift music? Why not a quiet number, something that shows your phrasing — some Andante?" "Mr. Bauer," replied the pupil, "your lessons are too expensive—I can't afford to play the slow music."

Great Poets.

There have, of course, been many fine poets, writers of beautiful sentiments in beautiful numbers; but the supremely great poets may be counted on the fingers of the two hands. England and Scotland lead the world in great poets, having, perhaps, a half dozen, while the other countries can show hardly more than one each, and some of them not even one.

She Paid.

On Sunday grandma took Baby Jane, aged three, to church. When they took up the collection Jane put her two pennies in the box. Grandma was looking for her purse, when baby said, "Dat's all right, grandma, I'se paid for two."—Cleveland Leader.

CHILDREN'S DIET.

What Makes Up a Good Mixed Diet For Small Growers.

"My child eats everything."

This exclamation has a good and a bad interpretation. If "everything" means pickles, cucumbers, meat, coleslaw, pepper hash, kidney stew, cheese, coffee and beer and the child is under eight years of age or even slightly over that mark the mother should be ashamed to say it.

If, on the other hand, she merely means that the child eats everything which she wisely selects for him and is not "finicky"—that is, will eat well cooked cereals, vegetables, fruits, nutritious desserts—if this is what "everything" implies, then the mother has every right to be proud, for such a child has been sensibly fed.

A child should be trained to eat everything you put before him, but do not put "everything" before him which you yourself eat.

A child's stomach is much smaller than yours; therefore he should have less heavy and more frequent meals than you do. In the middle of the morning or afternoon a child should have some milk, with bread or toast or a saucer of cereal. A child not only must keep his body warm, but must build up new muscles, new bones and increase his strength. You should not attempt to increase the strength of his back by asking him to carry a trunk to the third floor. But are you sure you are not asking his stomach to perform just as remarkable a feat by feeding it twice as much as the size of it will allow and its small strength digest?

Your digestive system has had many years of practice in assimilating all kinds of food; your child has only three or four years of such experience behind him. How, then, can you expect him to digest the same foods which you do—meat, cheese, pickles, coleslaw, coffee and other foods so difficult for a child's stomach to handle?

Entire Wheat Bread.

Use three and one-half pints entire wheat flour, a pint of good white bread flour, a handful of salt, butter half the size of an egg, one-half cupful of molasses, a compressed yeast cake, a quart warm water. Mix dry ingredients together first, then rub in butter. Take one-half cupful of water from the measured quart and dissolve yeast cake in this. Add to dry ingredients, then add molasses, then rest of water. Knead about twenty minutes, using enough white flour to form a soft but not a sticky dough. This might need about an additional pint of white flour. Cover well and put in a warm place overnight. In the morning, when it has risen to top of bowl or pan, turn out on a well floured board and mold into loaves. Allow to rise until loaves reach top of pans and bake in a hot oven thirty-five or forty minutes. When done turn from pans and with a small piece of paper spread butter over top crust of each loaf.

The Golf Helmet.

There is a new model of golf cap which much resembles a policeman's helmet and has a little patent kid chin strap. The material is linen or satin and is covered over with a handmade fish net. The front is decorated with an embroidered applique.

The New Petticoats.

White petticoats of batiste or very thin silk are made with a deep ruffled flounce which measures from three to five yards round. These are to be worn under the net and organdie dresses, which require voluminous petticoats to display their charm.

Lay of the Cow.

"What are oxen?" asked the teacher. The little foreigners looked blank. "Does any one know what a cow is?" she asked hopefully.

A dingy hand waved wildly at the back of the room. "I know, I know, teacher. A cow she lays milk."—Harper's Magazine.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 13, 1916.

We note with wonder rather than with pleasure the fact that Major General O'Ryan of the National Guard of this State has directed certain members of his staff to make an investigation and prepare for publication a list of employers who fail to pay the regular wages of militiamen in their employ who have gone to the front. The investigators have already informed the reporters that these delinquents are for the most part "not corporations, but small organizations and partnerships." This admission stamps the whole proceeding with disgrace. It is easy enough for a big corporation to pay its men who have gone to fight. The expense involved is but a minute fraction of its total payroll. But with the small employer it is different. Perhaps he has but one employe, and that one goes to the war. If he keeps up his wages just the same, it is obvious that his wage payments are increased 100 per cent, which means financial ruin. Even if there are five employes, one of whom has enlisted, the wage increase is 20 per cent, which is enough to wreck most enterprises. The fact should be borne in mind that no employer is under the slightest obligation to keep up an absent employe's wages any more than it is his duty to present the State treasury with a thousand dollars or any other sum of money.

A very large number of employers have been good enough to keep up the wages of absent soldiers or at least to pay their dependents enough to keep them from becoming public charges, and for this they deserve high praise. Also, praise is due to the generous individuals who have contributed toward equipment and food for our volunteer soldiers. Major General O'Ryan might with grace devote the unoccupied energies of members of his staff to preparing a list of these benefactors, many of whom have shouldered burdens which they find pretty heavy, but to post a list of non-contributors is a novelty in the annals of philanthropic work. All expenses of every sort, direct and indirect, due to the mobilization of the Guard ought to be borne by the State of New York, and divided between all the taxpayers. We note that Senator Elon R. Brown has suggested to Governor Whitman that he call a special session of the Legislature to make a sufficient appropriation for this purpose, and the Governor ought to do this unless he has in mind some cheaper way to restore the Empire State from its status of public beggar to the status of a self-respecting commonwealth.

Our local Board of Health has acted wisely in enacting an ordinance prohibiting children under sixteen years of age from mingling with crowds during the existence of the epidemic of infantile paralysis, but it is incidentally a severe criticism of the general lack of common sense which distinguishes the populace. One would naturally suppose that parents who had gone to the trouble and expense of rearing children would be vigilant in guarding them from the danger of being killed or crippled, but such is not the case. For the most part they give no thought to the danger. In spite of all that has been printed and read regarding this subject, picnics and parties would be as well attended as ever if they were permitted, and it is certain that the enforcement of the ordinance referred to will necessitate arrests and fines. In the metropolis it has been found necessary to arrest parents for letting their children play with garbage, although that is known to be one of the most effective ways of gathering in disease germs. In ancient days it was believed that parents were the proper persons to bring up their children, but we have reached a condition which seems to require the transfer of many of these admonitory duties to the Government.

Another illustration of the necessity of Governmental endeavor to furnish a substitute for lacking gray matter in individual skulls was the recent enactment by our local Board of Public Works of an ordinance restricting the felling of shade trees. To a normal person it seems all but incredible that anybody should maim or destroy a shade tree which cannot be replaced in many years, if at all, but we have had plenty of evidence that there are such fools "in our midst." The very foundation of our institutions and customs is the liberty of the individual, but we cannot blind ourselves to the fact that there is something to be said for the Prussian system of having a central power which tells everybody just what is "verboten" and what isn't, and sees that they obey.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"My wife constantly pesters me for money. Does yours?" "No; the people she buys things from do that."—Boston Transcript.

Visitor—"Of course you tried the jinrikshas while you were in Japan, Mrs. New Gilt?" Mrs. New Gilt—"Oh, my wold, yes; aren't they the awful tasting things!"—Judge.

Music-Lover—"How distressing it must be when a singer realizes that she has lost her voice!" Critic—"Yes; but how much more distressing it is when she doesn't realize it."—Puck.

The Surgeon—"Don't worry, old chap. You'll get something some day, and then I'll—"

The Intimate Frend—"My dear boy, be assured of one thing—I'll never let you cut me up—I'll live first."—Life.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "they have dog tents in the army, don't they?" "Why, yes. You see, it's a sort of technical term—" "You needn't trouble to explain. I guess I understand words of one syllable. What I wanted to say is that I'm glad our faithful four-footed friends are provided for. Only I suspect the S. P. C. A. made them do it."—Washington Star.

The True View.

The late James J. Hill was a man of buoyant optimism.

"Failures," he once said in an address to railway men, "are always pessimists. Successes on the other hand, are optimists. Which is right?"

He paused, then added:

"It's easier to slip down hill than to climb up, but the view, remember, is at the top."—Washington Star.

Suspicious.

When a member desires a book that is not in the library he files his application for the volume, which the librarian reserves for him on its return, notifying him that the book awaits his pleasure. Now it happened that one of the members applied for, but could not get at the time, a copy of a novel entitled, "The Girl He Left Behind Him." In the course of time a postcard arrived from the library and as the member's wife is of a suspicious nature that postcard caused trouble, for it read: "Mr. T— is informed that 'The Girl He Left Behind Him' is now in the library, and will be kept for him till next Tuesday morning."—Rochester Times.

The Bad Dime.

Henry Ford, at a picnic in his native Dearborn, condemned the policy of reprisals.

"There is always something futile and ridiculous about reprisals," he said. "Reprisals make me think of the man to whom the minister said sternly:

"'Smith, my friend, that was a bad dime you put in this morning's collection for the heathen.'

"'Yes, parson,' Smith answered, in a firm voice. 'I owe the heathen one for eating a missionary uncle of mine.'"—Washington Star.

Swelling With Pride.

Charles W. Mortimer, British Consul at Los Angeles, said at a dinner, according to The Times of that city: "To improve one's carriage, to acquire a manly look, there is nothing like doing one's duty by one's country. A young Englishman asked his doctor the other day: 'Doctor, what is the best thing to expand the chest?' 'War medals,' the doctor answered."

Good Advice.

The young physician was tired, but, as he settled back in his easy chair, and his newly wedded wife took a seat beside him, he asked, affectionately: "And has my little wife been lonely?" "Oh, no," she said, animatedly; "at least, not very. I've found something to busy myself with." "Indeed!" he said. "What is it?" "Oh, I'm organizing a class. A lot of young girls and married women are in it, and we're teaching each other how to cook!" "What do you do with the things you cook?" "We send them to the neighbors." "Dear little woman," said he, "always thoughtful of your husband's practice."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Crooked.

"Well, how did your ticket come out in the primaries?" "Crooked politics beat us," answered the Punkville candidate. "We were fixing to offer two dollars for votes, and the other side came along offering five dollars. It's a heavy blow to reform."

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well I see that the Chamber of Commerce is making every effort to get some concern to reopen the old automobile plant," said the friend to the street corner politician, after the usual remarks about the weather being hot had been exchanged.

"Yes" replied the politician "and I hope that they meet with success, as it seems a shame to see such a fine plant idle."

"It seems to me that we used to have a bottle cap factory in Kingston," said the friend after a pause in the conversation.

"We did,' replied the politician, "but that closed shortly after the Democrats took hold of the affairs of the country."

"How was that?" asked the friend.

"Well according to what I hear," responded the politician "it seems that under the protective tariff of the Republicans the bottle cap factory was able to do business, but when Wilson assumed office, the Democrats got busy with the tariff question and as a result the bottle cap manufacturers of Europe found that they did not have to pay the high tariff under the Republican administration, and as a result they were able to ship their goods into this country, and sell them at a considerably lower price than local manufacturers could meet."

"This was due," continued the politician "to the fact that in Europe the wage paid factory hands are extremely low, while over here the factory hands get paid living wages."

"Fortunately, however, next November we will elect Hughes president, and then the Republicans will see that a protective tariff is enacted. In fact the tariff question giving this country's manufacturers a chance to compete successfully with the European manufacturers is one of the things that is going to put the Republicans back in control of the country.

The politician paused for a moment and then continued, "Suppose for a moment, that the war in Europe should cease within a year. That would mean that the markets of this country would be flooded with European products sold at a price that the local manufacturers could not meet. It does not take a large amount of brains to figure out just what would happen then in this country, does it?"

"No you are right there," replied his friend.

To the present shortage of paper in this country may be ascribed the reason why the administration has not written any notes within the past day or so.

Our weather report—Warmer with probable change in the Mexican situation.

Political dope—Local Democrats will soon be imploring candidates to run on the ticket this fall.

Financial—Soon be time for the administration to loan Carranza some money to purchase war munitions.

Considering a Nibble.

The board of directors and members of the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting at the city hall on Wednesday evening to consider a proposition from a concern in regard to the reopening of the old automobile plant. The proposition was discussed in executive session, and it is understood that Secretary Canfield was instructed to make a counter proposition to the concern. It is expected that the matter will be taken up later and that a meeting will be held to hear the secretary's report.

SEVEN IN RUINS OF WRECKED SHOP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 13.—Seven persons are missing as the result of an explosion of ammonia tanks in the basement of Martin Schmidt's butcher shop at 416 Sumner avenue, Brooklyn, today. The three upper floors of the four story building in which the butcher shop was located, were occupied by tenants. The building was completely wrecked.

Firemen and policemen at once began tearing away the wreckage and quickly came in sight of the bodies, but could not tell whether the persons were dead or alive, as they could not reach them.

Mr. Leonhardt to Teach.

John Leonhardt, for many years piano player at the Bijou, pianist at the Casino during the past season and who now plays for the pictures at the opera house, has affiliated himself with the Kingston Conservatory of Music. Mr. Leonhardt will find time, aside from his work at the theater, for teaching, at which for several years he has been especially successful, having a large number of skillful pupils throughout the city. Mr. Leonhardt will also play in the Muller orchestra, and since the loss of Harry Maisenhelder, who now is a member of the Tenth Regiment Band at Camp Whitman, his presence there will be particularly gratifying, both to the public and his fellow musicians.

Three Killed by Explosion.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Haskell, N. J., July 13.—At least three persons were killed and 15 others were injured by an explosion in the Ballsite mill of the DuPont Powder Works today. Two buildings were destroyed. So terrific was the force that persons two miles away were thrown from chairs.

Middletown Veteran Missing.

Captain James A. Grier, a civil war veteran, has been missing from his home in Middletown since July 4. It is thought he started for the Soldiers' Home at Bath.

Bank of England Raises Rate.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 13.—The Bank of England today raised its rate one per cent to six per cent. This is the first change since August 8, 1914.

SUMMER SPECIAL TERMS.

One Will Be Held July 31 And Another in August.

On account of the absence of Judge Hasbrouck, who is in Maine, and his inability to reach Kingston in time, there will not be any special term of the supreme court in this city on Saturday, but the term will be adjourned instead for one week.

A regular special term of the supreme court in Kingston during the months of July and August is an entirely new thing. In past years there have been no regular special terms in any of the counties comprising the third judicial district during July or August except as there has been a fifth Saturday in either of these months, in which case the special term was held at Albany. This year the appellate division, in assigning special terms for the district, assigned a special term to be held on the third Saturday of both July and August by Judge Hasbrouck at Kingston.

One Standard of Morality.

There is only one standard of morality; it is the same for the individual in private as in public life and it is the same for the nation as the individual. There is no special code of morals for the politician that will permit him to perpetrate acts that would not be tolerated in private life. In the future some of our politicians will have something of this to conjure over.—Exchange.

A delightful garden frock of white net with ribbon and ruffled skirt. An over tunic is edged with a narrow cording of white silk. Clusters of rosebuds and dainty satin ribbon serve to afford a charming color note. The garden set of printed linen is most interesting.

Not a Picnic.

"I have lived in the city all my life and I would like to know whether farm life is rigorous. Is it?" asks a Public Mind girl. If you'll drop out some place west of Wichita some day this month and watch mother and the girls cooking for a regiment of harvest workers you'll find that farm life in the summer is not exactly a tea party. —Kansas City Star.

Repress Emotion.

A well-known author has said: "The great critical moment in our lives is when we choose which emotion to express. We become what we choose. In this way we develop our character and are responsible for our character." This is true and nothing is more foolish than permitting every little chance incident of the hour to ruffle the spirits.

STOLEN BASE RECORD

Max Carey of Pirates Showing Best Speed on Bases.

Pirate Outfielder Has Been Making Displays of Speed in Recent Games —Makes Two Bases on an Ordinary Sacrifice.

Max Carey, Pirate outfielder, is showing the best speed on the bases in the National league at present, and if he manages to continue the stride he will get the honors by the time the season closes. Just now he has the stolen base situation well in hand, being far ahead of his nearest competitor. If Max could hit the ball a bit harder—add 20 per cent to his average—he would be the best-looking outfielder in the National league at present.

Display of Speed.

Carey has been making displays of his speed in lots of games lately and getting away with stunts that but few ball players would undertake. Recently while the Pirates were playing the Reds at Cincinnati he astonished old and young by going all the way from first to third on an ordinary sacrifice. Few base runners in the league could repeat the stunt. And it was with clean fielding on the play and no booted balls.

Two Bags on Sacrifice.

A day or so later in the same series he scored from third on an infield fly that was caught not more than 20 feet behind third base, the fielder getting the ball in to home with all speed in an effort to catch him. Also he circled the bases shortly after on a clean hit to center that most players would not have thought a triple. In his past five seasons with Pittsburgh Carey has not shown such speed and pep, and with a .300 batting average he would have everything on all the other outfielders in the league.

Max Carey.

ODD PLAY IN INTERNATIONAL

Rule Saying Assistance Given Base Runner at Third Base Is Interference Is Violated.

Here is an old play that came up in a Providence-Richmond game that President Ed Barrow of the International league will have to pass on, as it is told by a correspondent. With Clemens on first, Aragon, the Cuban infielder with Richmond, slashed a triple to deep center. Clemens rushed around the paths and crossed the pan just as Powell retrieved the ball. It was thrown to Shean, who cut it loose to Brainard to intercept the flying Aragon. The ball hit Aragon on the head and knocked him unconscious, bounding off behind the stand and out of sight of the umpires. Aragon fell to the ground and failed to rise. His team-mates hurried to the rescue and with the aid of two players Aragon was carried from third to the plate for the winning run. The rule says assistance given a runner at third base shall cause the umpire to call him out. In this case Aragon was not only assisted at third base, but was carried to the plate in the arms of two fellow players. Three minutes later he walked to his position at short field and played the inning out, apparently as well as ever.

NEAT PROBLEM IN BASEBALL

It Looks Like Serious Puzzle at First, But It Is Easily Understood When Explained.

Here's what looks like a baseball problem, yet it's easily explained: In a game the other day, two balls were pitched, and two men reached base. A third ball was pitched and there were no men on base, yet neither a triple play nor a double play was made. Figure it out. Simple enough: The first batter was hit by the first ball thrown. The second batter soaked the second pitch for a single. The man who had been on first overslid second, and a quick return from the outfield got him before he could scramble back. On the next pitch, the man who was on first tried to steal second and was chucked out by a comfortable margin.

Brief Bliss.

Mother—"Why didn't you prevent him from kissing you? Why didn't you call me? (Reflectively) But I suppose it was all over too soon." Daughter (with a far-away look)—"Yes, mamma, it was all over too soon."—Boston Transcript.

In England and Wales there are approximately eight hundred bearers of any one surname on an average. The Smiths alone number more than 400,000, or 500 times as many. The great family can boast of more men of distinction who have helped to make the empire what it is than the bearers of any other name.

Weakness of the Great.

The two greatest men who appear in "Julius Caesar"—namely, Caesar himself and Cicero—are allotted but minor parts in Shakespeare's play, and to each with daring originality the dramatist has attributed a physical defect, for the existence of which history supplied him with no evidence. Caesar, for instance, confesses to deafness, bidding Antony—

"Come on my right hand, for this ear is deaf," while Brutus speaks of Cicero's "ferret and fiery eyes," as if no one could fail to note them. Respect for these two immortals was no doubt thus diminished, but by showing them as not above human weaknesses Shakespeare made them more easily realized. —London Globe.

Nelly Gray.

Almost every schoolboy of a dozen years or more ago knew somewhat of the rimes of Thomas Hood, especially the poem entitled "Faithless Nelly Gray," in which—

Ben Battle was a soldier bold
And used to war's alarms,
But a cannon ball took off his legs,
And he laid down his arms.

A correspondent of T. P.'s London Weekly calls attention to a stanza that is usually omitted in which Nelly puts her objection to the mutilated warrior in part after this fashion:

"Why, then," said she, "you've lost the feet
Of legs in war's alarms,
And now you cannot wear your shoes
Upon your feats of arms."

HIGHLAND.

Highland, July 13.—The M. E. Church has a strong aggressive society which is known as the Auxiliary Club and last Friday they met at the church parlors for their business and social time, also election of officers for 1916. There were over 40 members present and a few guests. The hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Feeter, Mrs. J. C. Coddington, Mrs. William Feeter, Mrs. Franklyn Wilkes, Misses Edith and Hattie Dickenson. These ladies welcomed all most graciously, although everyone gave an exclamation that it was very warm and it was something to wonder at, that all were so good natured. The president called the meeting to order and gave to everyone a cordial welcome, then the business was taken up. Everything was cleaned from the 1915 slate and they were ready to begin anew. Everything in the past was satisfactory, all reports from the many committees were certainly worth listening to, showing that intelligent and well-informed and self-possessed women can transact business, knowing they are neither politicians nor meddlers, but women interested in the welfare of the church and many of these ladies seem eminently fitted for work for they bring not alone ability, but years of real practice, they lend generously of their time and knowledge to the furthering of all good work. At the conclusion of the year's budget the president resigned and called to the chair the first vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Feeter, who proceeded to elect officers at the request of membership. All officers were re-elected by acclamation. The President, Mrs. R. H. Decker returns on duty for her 19th year as the presiding officer of the club which is a record to be prized. Quite a number of the officers have been with her for several years. There are problems and needs that demand workers that owe neither allegiance, nor loyalty to party or individual and it is a great tax upon a woman's ingenuity and strength to adjust herself properly where business and social affairs occur up the same day, but they seem equal to the occasions and expect to work on in the future, as in the past. The social hour was much enjoyed and the members and visitors were treated to a delicious luncheon by the hostesses, which everyone enjoyed. After the lunch, two Syracuse students gave a demonstration of aluminum ware, which they are desirous of selling. This was interesting to the housekeepers. It certainly was curious how the time had gone and the members decided they would have to leave and get the evening meal for those at home. The afternoon proved to be so beneficial and enjoyable that the people were in no hurry to leave. Expressions of pleasure were given the hostesses and "au revoir" was said until the first meeting in August.

The block party which was to have been given on Friday of this week, the 14th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary Club of M. E. TRY IT ON THE DISK.

A Test That Proves the Human Skull a Good Sounding Box.

An interesting experiment that proves what a good sounding box the human skull is can be performed by any one who has a disk phonograph, says Electrical Engineering.

Stop up both of your ears with cotton as tightly as possible, so that no sound will be heard from the outside. Now place an ordinary darning needle between your teeth by biting on it hard, taking care that the tongue or lips do not touch the needle. The latter is important, because if either lip or tongue touches the needle the sound will be decreased considerably.

For the best results the needle itself should project not more than one or one and a half inches from the mouth. For that reason the darning needle should be broken off about one and one-half inches from its sharp point. It goes without saying that the sharp point should project out of the mouth, while the broken off end should be inside the mouth.

Now start an ordinary disk phonograph and carefully press down upon the record with the needle's point held at the same angle as the reproducer's needle is held ordinarily. As soon as the needle touches the record with sufficient pressure the inside of the head will be filled immediately with music exceedingly loud and clear.

Brignoli In a Temper.

On one occasion Bianchi, the noted teacher, went on the stage to see Brignoli, the famous singer, whom he found pacing up and down like a madman, humming over his part.

"Why, Brig, what is the matter with you? Are you nervous?" he asked.

"Yes, I am nervous," was the reply as he walked harder and faster than ever.

"But, Brig, you ought not to be nervous. I've heard you sing the part 200 times. I heard you sing it thirty years ago."

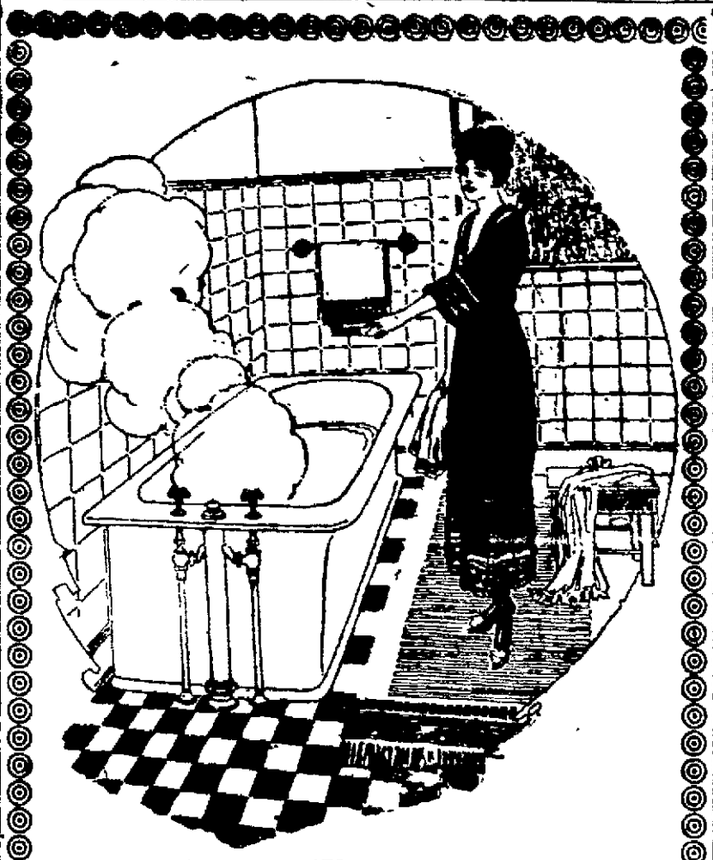
"Thirty years ago! Who are you that should know so much?"

"Who am I? You know who I am, and I know who you are."

"Very well; you know what I am, but I am sure you do not know what you are, and if you wish I will tell you. You are a fool!"

Alexander In Mesopotamia.

The marshes of Mesopotamia were famous in the time of Alexander the Great. One of the last acts of his life, within a few weeks of his death, was a voyage down the Euphrates to the great dike of Pallakopas, about ninety miles below Babylon. This sluice has been constructed by the ancient Assyrian kings to let off the water of the river when it became excessive into the marshes. It was reported not to be working well, and Alexander proposed to construct another sluice lower down. He sailed on into the marshes, steering his vessel himself, with his diadem on his head, to explore them and the tombs of the kings, and so extensive were the lakes and swamps that Alexander's fleet lost its way among them.



BEAUTY SECRETS

BY MADAME X.

Summer is one of woman's most dreaded enemies. Chief among the ills it brings are poor complexion, heat sickness, peevish, high-strung nerves and that tired, muggy feeling of general discomfort—all results of the weather. The heat is causing your cells to break down and turn to waste matter at a much faster rate. This waste matter is poisoning your system and irritating your nerves. Relief is only secured when it escapes or is eliminated—largely through the pores.

Hence the necessity of keeping the pores and skin as clean as possible—far more so than in cooler weather. Help the poisons to escape rapidly, leaving your complexion clear and your spirits as fresh and full of life as during the cool season.

As a means of keeping the pores clean and open, I cannot too strongly insist upon the importance of the daily warm or hot bath. It expands the pores and allows the poisonous waste to pass out. It softens and clears the complexion. Not only this, but it acts as a refreshing tonic, at once soothing and strengthening the nerves.

"But a daily warm bath—that means ever so much work!" you say. "The labor of heating the water makes it impossible."

I can only answer that I have not found it so. My secret? I give it freely. My home has that indispensable comfort, a Gas Water Heater—always ready to give me abundant hot water when I need it, merely at the lighting of a burner. So simple—yet so effective and really economical. I earnestly advise you to get one, if you have not one already.

We cannot well avoid summer, but we can largely avoid its baneful effects. My recipe is a daily bath, in warm or hot water, secured with as little exertion as possible—preferably by means of a Gas Water Heater.

Rutgers College Preparing to Celebrate Its 150th Anniversary

Rutgers College, situated in New Brunswick, N. J., is one hundred and fifty years old. Founded as Queen's College, in 1766, it is the eighth oldest college in the United States. It survived the stormy days of the Revolution, continued to keep its doors open during the war of the Rebellion, and in the past ten years has increased its student enrollment by almost 100 per cent. Now, as the State College of New Jersey, it has an undergraduate body of almost five hundred students.

President W. H. S. Demarest and other members of the administrative board are planning a big celebration next October in commemoration of the completion of Rutgers College's one hundred and fiftieth year. The festivities will embrace three days, during which time it is planned to entertain several thousand guests in New Brunswick. One feature in connection with the celebration which should be of deep interest is the historical pageant which will be given on the College Farm, on the afternoon of Friday, October 13th. This pageant will portray the history of Rutgers from its founding to the present time and will be replete with incidents of historical interest. One of the scenes will portray the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the way in which the news was received at that time; another will depict New Brunswick at the time of the Civil War; and still another will show the social side of city life, represented by a ball at the famous old Buccleuch Mansion.

Rutgers is especially fortunate in its store of traditions which has made possible the historical pageant. The college had its origin in the zeal for education and religion shown by the Dutch colonists in New York and New Jersey. The first charter was granted in the name of George the Third, by William Franklin, governor of the Province of New Jersey. No copy of this document is now known to be in existence, but under its provisions the Board of Trustees was created and meetings were called.

A second charter was granted in 1770, and under its provisions, almost unchanged, Rutgers has continued until the present day. It provides for a college to be called Queen's College, in honor of the royal consort, Charlotte, and to be erected for "the education of youth in the learned languages, and useful arts and sciences, and especially in divinity."

The college was located in New Brunswick, although some of the trustees are said to have favored Hackensack. During the Revolutionary War, its activities were at different times removed to neighboring villages and the tutors in charge, Colonel Frederick Frelinguysen and Colonel John Taylor, were frequently called away for the civil and military services which are now a matter of history. In 1808, the present campus was acquired and the erection of the first college hall, still called Queen's Building was begun.

In 1825, in recognition of the donations of Colonel Henry Rutgers, of New York, the name of the college was changed to Rutgers. In 1864, the college was designated by the Legislature of New Jersey as "The State College for the Benefit of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts."

Since that time, Rutgers has grown steadily. A new Nelson Campus was added to the old Queen's Campus, and additional buildings erected. A College Farm, consisting of over three hundred acres, has been purchased, and is used by students of the agricultural course.

It is on this farm that the historical pageant will be held. A small lake will be utilized in all of the scenes and will permit the enactment of several incidents which would otherwise have been impossible. It is estimated that over five hundred persons will take part in the pageant, and that approximately five thousand spectators will be present. The historical nature of the production will make it of deep interest.

AN ACT to amend the public health law, in relation to licenses to practice veterinary medicine.

Became a law May 10, 1916, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two hundred and nineteen of chapter forty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to public health, constituting chapter forty-five of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter one hundred and seventy-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and twelve, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 219. Licenses. On receiving from the state board an official report that an applicant has successfully passed the examination and is recommended for license, the regents shall issue to him, if in their judgment he is duly qualified therefor, a license to practice veterinary medicine. Every license shall be issued by the university under seal and shall be signed by each acting veterinary medical examiner of the board and by the officer of the university who approved the credential which admitted the candidate to examination, and shall state that the licensee has given satisfactory evidence of fitness as to age, character, preliminary and veterinary medical education and all other matters required by law, and that after full examination he has been found duly qualified to practice. Applicants examined and licensed before July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, by other state examining boards registered by the regents as maintaining standards not lower than those provided by this article, and applicants who matriculated in a New York state veterinary medical school before July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, and who received the veterinary degree from a registered veterinary medical school before July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, may without further examination, on payment of ten dollars to the regents, and on submitting such evidence as they may require, receive from them an indorsement of their license or diplomas conferring all rights and privileges of a regents' license issued after examination. And any veterinary practitioner in any county of this state who was registered in the county clerk's office between July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, and July first, nineteen hundred and fifteen, may, upon satisfactory evidence of such registration and of qualification to practice, and upon written application, receive from the board of regents a certificate of facts which may be registered in the office of the county clerk where such practitioner was registered, and thus make valid his previous imperfect registration. Before any license is issued it shall be numbered and recorded in a book kept in the regents' office and its number shall be noted in the license. This record shall be open to public inspection, and in all legal proceedings shall have the same weight as evidence that is given to a record of conveyance of land.

AN ACT to amend the state boards and commissions law, in relation to creating the interstate bridge commission and defining its powers and duties.

Became a law May 11, 1916, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows.

Section 1. Article six and sections fifty-five and fifty-six of chapter fifty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to state boards and commissions, constituting chapter fifty-four of the consolidated laws," are hereby severally renumbered article seven and sections seventy and seventy-one, respectively; and such chapter is hereby amended by inserting therein a new article, to be article six, to read as follows:

ARTICLE 6.

The Interstate Bridge Commission.

Section 55. Interstate bridge commission created.

56. Acquisition of bridges by agreement.

57. Bridges, how acquired when not purchased.

58. Proceedings for acquisition of bridges by condemnation.

59 Idem; report of commissioners; confirmation; appeals.

60. Costs.

61. Management of bridges, tolls abolished, et cetera.

62 Expense of acquisition; one-half to be borne by this state.

63 Expense of maintenance a joint charge.

§ 55. Interstate bridge commission created. The state engineer and surveyor, the superintendent of public works and the state highway commissioner shall constitute the interstate bridge commission hereby created. Such commission shall, together with a similar board or commission from the state of Pennsylvania, constitute a joint commission to acquire the rights, franchises and property of the several bridge corporations, municipal corporations, companies, partnerships or individuals owning or operating toll bridges and including the bridge at Pond Eddy in the town of Lumberland, Sullivan county, owned by said town across the Delaware river between the state of New York and the state of Pennsylvania, except such as are owned by steam or electric railroads or railways and used exclusively for railroad or railway purposes. Such acquisition shall be either by purchase or to be had and effected by this state and the state of Pennsylvania under and by virtue of their respective rights of eminent domain, this state to pay one-half of the cost of the said bridges and one-half of the cost of acquiring them, and the other half of the cost of the said bridges and one-half of the cost of acquiring them to be paid by the state of Pennsylvania, or in lieu thereof, in proportion between the state of Pennsylvania and the counties and municipalities thereof as the latter state may by appropriate legislation determine.

§ 56. Acquisition of bridges by agreement. Such joint commission shall, in its discretion, determine the order in which the several bridge properties, rights and franchises shall be acquired by purchase or condemnation, subject, however, to the amount of the appropriation by the respective states available for such purposes, preference being given to those who, in order of time, shall voluntarily agree with the joint commission upon the purchase price. After the said joint commission shall have acquired the properties, rights and franchises of and in all the bridge corporations, municipal corporations, companies, partnerships or individuals as have so agreed with them upon the purchase price thereof and payment has been made for the same in the manner hereinafter set forth, the said joint commission shall cause personal notice in writing to be served upon the president, secretary or treasurer of each of the bridge corporations, members of the companies or partnerships, individuals and chief executive officer of each of the municipal corporations, which have theretofore failed to agree to sell their rights, properties and franchises or refused to sell the same at a price offered by the said joint commission, setting forth their intention to begin condemnation proceedings under the power of eminent domain, as set forth in this article.

§ 57. Bridges, how acquired when not purchased. It shall be the duty of the joint commission to determine in which state the condemnation proceedings shall be instituted and prosecuted with, and in case the said proceedings shall be instituted in this state they shall be proceeded with in accordance with sections fifty-eight and fifty-nine of this article.

§ 58. Proceedings for acquisition of bridges by condemnation. In case the purchase price has not been agreed upon between the joint commission and any of such bridge corporations, municipal corporations, companies, partnerships or individuals, the supreme court in the judicial district in which the bridges or any one of them so about to be taken shall be situated, without any bond being required to be filed, on application thereto by the attorney-general or of any bridge corporation, municipal corporation, company, partnership or persons interested, shall appoint three discreet and disinterested freeholders, none of whom shall be a resident of the county in which the bridge is situated, as commissioners of appraisal and appoint a time not less than twenty nor more than thirty days thereafter when the said commissioners shall meet upon the property and view the same and the premises affected thereby. The said commissioners shall give at least ten days' personal notice of the time and place of the first meeting to the attorney-general and to the president, secretary or treasurer of the bridge corporation, members of the company or partnership affected, individual owning such bridge, or executive officer of such municipal corporation, if any of the aforesaid officers or persons so to be notified reside in the county in which said bridge is located, otherwise by advertisement for three consecutive weeks in two newspapers published in the said county and by hand bills posted upon the premises or by such other notice as the court shall direct. The said commissioners having been duly sworn or affirmed faithfully, justly and impartially to decide and true report make concerning the value of the property and franchises so taken, which shall be submitted to them, and in relation to which they are authorized to inquire under the provisions of this article, and having viewed the premises or examined the property, shall hear all parties interested and their witnesses and shall estimate the damage for property taken, injured or destroyed, with all the rights, property and franchises appertaining to the same, and to whom damages are payable. They shall give at least ten days' notice thereof in the manner herein provided to the attorney-general and to the president, secretary or treasurer of the bridge corporation, members of company or partnership affected, individual owning such bridge, or executive officer of such municipal corporation, of the time and place when said commissioners will meet and exhibit their report and hear all exceptions thereto. After making whatever changes are deemed necessary, the said commissioners shall make report to the court, showing the damages, and file therewith a plan showing the location of said bridge or bridges so taken and the name of the corporation, company, partnership or person to whom such damages are payable.

§ 59. Idem; report of commissioners; confirmation; appeals. Upon the report of said commissioners or any two of them being filed in said court, either the state or the corporation, company, partnership or persons owning said bridge or bridges, or any party interested, may, within thirty days thereafter, file exceptions to the same and the court shall have power to confirm said report or to modify, change or otherwise correct the same or refer the same back to the same or new commissioners with like powers [illegible] days from the filing of any report or the final action of the court upon the exceptions, any corporation, company or partnership whose property is taken, or the state or any person interested, may appeal and demand a trial by jury, and any corporation, company, partnership, person or party interested therein, or the state, may, within thirty days after final decree, take an appeal to appellate division of the supreme court. If no exceptions are filed or demands made for trial by jury within the said period of thirty days after the filing of said report, the same shall become absolute. The said supreme court, at special terms, shall have power to order what notices shall be given in connection with any part of said proceedings and may make all such orders as it may deem requisite.

§ 60. Costs. The costs of the commissioners and all court costs, including advertisements, incurred in the proceedings aforesaid, shall be defrayed by the state.

§ 61. Management of bridges; tolls abolished; et cetera. Upon and immediately after the purchase or final proceedings in condemnation, as the case may be, the said bridge or bridges shall become the sole property of the several states, in the proportion aforesaid, and the toll charges thereof shall cease, and said bridge or bridges shall be free to the traveling public under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the said joint commission. The damages shall be appraised as of the date upon which the collection of tolls shall cease, with interest thereon at the rate of five per centum during the time an appeal from the appraisal thereof is pending and until the same or the purchase price thereof has been paid, provided that any steam or passenger railroad or railway now having the use and occupation of any such toll bridge under a lease or agreement with any corporation, company, partnership or person owning such bridge shall pay to this state and to the state of Pennsylvania, in equal proportion, the same rental, interest and charges, and in the same manner and proportions as they now pay the said bridge corporation or corporations, companies, partnerships or owners as aforesaid. Provided, further, that an, steam or electric railroad or railway corporation holding in whole or in part, in conjunction with a bridge corporation, company, partnership or individual, any bridge over the said river, upon which tolls are now collected or charged, shall be entitled to compensation to be agreed upon or ascertained as damages in the manner aforesaid in proportion as their interests may appear to and in the value of the bridge or bridges as a toll bridge or bridges only, and exclusive of its value as a railroad or railway bridge, and said bridge or bridges shall remain the property of the railroad or railway corporations, but toll charges thereon shall cease as heretofore provided in this section.

§ 62. Expense of acquisition; one-half to be borne by this state. The one-half costs of the purchase price or of the damages under condemnation proceedings of all bridge properties, rights or franchises, or interests therein, acquired by the states of New York and Pennsylvania, in the manner above set forth, shall be paid by the state treasurer of the state of New York, upon the warrant of the comptroller, for its proportionate share of the amount due from this state to the corporation or corporations, company or companies, partnership or partnerships, or proper person or persons, as their interests may appear, upon vouchers audited by the interstate bridge commission of this state.

§ 13. Expense of maintenance a joint charge. Upon the acquisition as aforesaid by this state jointly with the state of Pennsylvania of the bridge properties, rights and franchises, as hereinbefore provided, such bridge or bridges, except in the case of railroad or railway bridges as hereinbefore provided, shall be and remain in the charge and custody of the said joint commission, and such bridges and the immediate approaches thereto shall be maintained jointly by this state and the state of Pennsylvania in equal proportions, and shall be kept in constant repair and rebuilt when destroyed, and the expense thereof and therefor shall be paid as are other expenses incident to the maintenance of property in the charge and custody of the said state; provided that appropriate concurrent legislation for the same purpose be enacted by the state of Pennsylvania.

LAWS OF NEW YORK—By Authority.

CHAP. 597.

AN ACT to amend the lien law, generally.

Became a law May 11, 1916, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two of chapter thirty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to liens, constituting chapter thirty-three of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter five hundred and six of the laws of nineteen hundred and fourteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 2. Definitions; lienor. The term "lienor," when used in this chapter, means any person having a lien upon property by virtue of its provisions, and includes his successor in interest.

Real property. The term "real property," when used in this chapter, includes real estate, lands, tenements and hereditaments, corporeal and incorporeal, fixtures, and all bridges and trestle work, and structures connected therewith, erected for the use of railroads, and all oil or gas wells and structures and fixtures connected therewith, and any lease of oil lands or other right to operate for the production of oil or gas upon such lands, and the right of franchise granted by a municipal corporation for the use of the streets or public places thereof, and all structures placed thereon for the use of such right or franchise.

Owner. The term "owner," when used in this chapter, includes the owner in fee of real property, or of a less estate therein, a lessee for a term of years, a vendee in possession under a contract for the purchase of such real property, and all persons having any right, title or interest in such real property, which may be sold under an execution in pursuance of the provisions of statutes relating to the enforcement of liens of judgment, and all persons having any right or franchise granted by a municipal corporation to use the streets and public places thereof, and any right, title or interest in and to such franchise. The purchaser of real property at a statutory or judicial sale shall be deemed the owner thereof from the time of such sale. If the purchaser at such sale fails to complete the purchase, pursuant to the terms of the sale, all liens created by his consent after such sale shall be a lien on any deposit made by him and not on the real property sold.

Improvement. The term "improvement," when used in this chapter, includes the erection, alteration or repair of any structure upon, connected with, or beneath the surface of, any real property and any work done upon such property or materials furnished for its permanent improvement, and shall also include any work done or materials furnished in equipping any such structure with any chandeliers, brackets or other fixtures or apparatus for supplying gas or electric light and shall also include the drawing by an architect or engineer, of any plans or specifications which are used in connection with such improvement.

Public improvement. The term "public improvement," when used in this chapter, means an improvement upon any real estate belonging to the state or a municipal corporation.

Contractor. The term "contractor," when used in this chapter, means a person who enters into a contract with the owner of real property for the improvement thereof, or with the state or a municipal corporation for a public improvement.

Subcontractor. The term "subcontractor," when used in this chapter, means a person who enters into a contract with a contractor for the improvement of such real property or such public improvement or with a person who has contracted with or through such contractor for the performance of his contract or any part thereof.

Laborer. The term "laborer," when used in this chapter, means any person who performs labor or services upon such improvement.

Material man. The term "material man," when used in this chapter, means any person who furnishes material for such improvement.

§ 2. Section four of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 4. Extent of lien. Such lien shall extend to the owner's right, title or interest in the real property and improvements, existing at the time of filing the notice of lien, except as hereinafter in this article provided. If an owner assigns his interest in such real property by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days prior to such filing, the lien shall extend to the interest thus assigned. If any part of the real property subjected to such lien be removed by the owner or by any other person, at any time before the discharge thereof, such removal shall not affect the rights of the lienor, either in respect to the remaining real property, or the part so removed. If labor is performed for, or materials furnished to, a contractor or subcontractor for an improvement, the lien shall not be for a sum greater than the sum earned and unpaid on the contract at the time of filing the notice of lien, and any sum subsequently earned thereon. In no case shall the owner be liable to pay by reason of all liens created pursuant to this article a sum greater than the value or agreed price of the labor and materials remaining unpaid, at the time of filing notices of such liens, except as hereinafter provided.

§ 3. Section five of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 5. Liens under contracts for public improvements. A person performing labor for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his subcontractor or legal representative, for the construction of a public improvement pursuant to a contract by such contractor with the state or a municipal corporation, shall have a lien for the principal and interest of the value or agreed price of such labor or materials upon the moneys of the state or of such corporation applicable to the construction of such improvement, to the extent of the amount due or to become due on such contract, upon filing a notice of lien as prescribed in this article, except as hereinafter in this article provided.

§ 4. Subdivision four of section nine of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

4. The labor performed or materials furnished and the agreed price or value thereof, or materials actually manufactured for but not delivered to the real property and the agreed price of value thereof.

§ 5. Section ten of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 10. Filing of notice. The notice of lien may be filed at any time during the progress of the work and the furnishing of the materials, or within four months after the completion of the contract, or the final performance of the work, or the final furnishing of the materials, dating from the last item of work performed or materials furnished. The notice of lien must be filed in the clerk's office of the county where the property is situated. If such property is situated in two or more counties, the notice of lien shall be filed in the office of the clerk of each of such counties. The county clerk of each county shall provide and keep a book to be called the "lien docket," which shall be suitably ruled in columns headed "owners," "lienors," "property," "amount," "time of filing," "proceedings had," in each of which he shall enter the particulars of the notice, properly belonging therein. The date, hour and minute of the filing of each notice of lien shall be entered in the proper column. The names of the owners shall be arranged in such book in alphabetical order. The validity of the lien and the right to file a notice thereof shall not be affected by the death of the owner before notice of the lien is filed.

§ 6. Section twelve of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 12. Notice of lien on account of public improvements. At any time before the construction of a public improvement is completed and accepted by the state or by the municipal corporation, and within thirty days after such completion and acceptance, a person performing work for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his subcontractor, assignee or legal representative, may file a notice of lien with the head of the department or bureau having charge of such construction and with the comptroller of the state or with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or other officer or person charged with the custody and disbursements of the state or corporate funds applicable to the contract under which the claim is made. The notice shall state the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or subcontractor for whom the labor was performed or materials furnished, the amount claimed to be due or to become due, the date when due, a description of the public improvement upon which the labor was performed and materials expended, the kind of labor performed and materials furnished, and materials actually manufactured for but not delivered to such public improvement, and give a general description of the contract pursuant to which such public improvement was constructed. If the lienor is a partnership or a corporation, the notice shall state the business address of such partnership or corporation, the names of the partners, and if a foreign corporation, its principal place of business within the state. If the name of the contractor or subcontractor is not known to the lienor, it may be so stated in the notice, and a failure to state correctly the name of the contractor or subcontractor shall not affect the validity of the lien. The notice must be verified by the lienor or his agent, to the effect that the statements therein contained are true to his own knowledge, except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true. The comptroller of the state or the financial officer of the municipal corporation or other officer or person with whom the notice is filed shall enter the same in a book provided for that purpose, to be called the "lien book." Such entry shall include the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or subcontractor, the amount of the lien and date of filing, and a brief designation of the contract under which the lien arose.

§ 7. Sections thirteen and fifteen of such chapter are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 13. Priority of liens. A lien for materials furnished or labor performed in the improvement of real property shall have priority over a conveyance, judgment or other claim against such property no recorded, docketed or filed at the time of the filing of the notice of such lien, except as hereinafter in this article provided; over advances made upon any mortgage or other encumbrance thereon after such filing, except as hereinafter in this article provided; and over the claim of a creditor who has not furnished materials or performed labor upon such property, if such property has been assigned by the owner by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days before the filing of such notice; and also over an attachment hereafter issued or a money judgment hereafter recovered upon a claim, which, in whole or in part, was not for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property; and over any claim or lien acquired in any proceedings upon such judgment. Such liens shall also have priority over advances made upon a contract by an owner for an improvement of real property which contains an option to the contractor, his successor or assigns to purchase the property, if such advances were made after the time when the labor began or the first item of material was furnished, as stated in the notice of lien. If several buildings are erected, altered or repaired, or several pieces or parcels of real property are improved, under one contract, and there are conflicting liens thereon, each lienor shall have priority upon the particular building or premises where his labor is performed or his materials are used. Persons shall have priority according to the date of filing their respective liens except as hereinafter in this article provided, but in all cases laborers for daily or weekly wages shall have preference over all other claimants under this article, without reference to the time when such laborers shall have filed their notices of liens.

§ 15. Assignments of contracts and orders to be filed. No assignment of a contract for the performance of labor or the furnishing of materials for the improvement of real property or of the money or any part thereof due or to become due therefor, nor an order drawn by a contractor upon the owner of such real property for the payment of such money, nor an order drawn by a subcontractor upon a contractor or subcontractor for such payment, nor an order drawn by an owner upon the maker of a building loan, nor an assignment of moneys due or to grow due under a building loan contract, shall be valid, unless the contract (other than a building loan contract) or a statement containing the substance thereof and such assignment or a copy of each or a copy of such order, be filed within ten days after the date of such assignment of contract, or such assignment of money, or such order, in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein the real property improved or to be improved is situated, and in case of a contract with a municipal corporation, also with the comptroller or chief fiscal officer thereof, and such contract, assignment or order shall have effect and be enforceable from the time of such filing, and no such assignment or order shall have any validity until the same shall have been so filed. Such clerk shall enter the facts relating to such assignment or order in the "lien docket" or in another book provided by him for such purpose.

§ 8. Section sixteen of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 16. Assignment of contracts and orders for public improvement to be filed. No assignment of a contract for the performance of labor or the furnishing of materials for a public improvement, or of the money, or any part thereof, due, or to become due, therefor, nor an order drawn by the contractor or subcontractor upon the municipal corporation, or the head of the department or bureau having charge of the construction of such public improvement, or the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or other officer or person charged with the custody and disbursement of the corporate funds applicable to the contract for such public improvement, shall be valid unless such assignment or order, or a copy thereof, be filed within ten days after the date of such assignment of contract or such assignment of money, or such order, with the head of the department or bureau having charge of such construction, and with the financial officer of the municipal corporation or other officer or person charged with the custody and disbursement of the corporate funds applicable to the contract for such public improvement, and such assignment or order shall have effect and be enforceable from the time of such filing, and no such assignment or order shall have any validity until the same have been so filed. The financial officer of the municipal corporation, or other officer or person with whom the assignment order, or copy thereof, is filed, shall enter the facts relating to the same in the lien book or other book provided for such purpose.

§ 9. Section seventeen of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 17. Duration of lien. No lien specified in this article shall be a lien for a longer period than one year after the notice of lien has been filed, unless within that time an action is commenced to foreclose the lien, and a notice of the pendency of such action, whether in a court of record or in a court not of record, is filed with the county clerk of the county in which the notice of lien is filed, containing the names of the parties to the action, the object of the action, a brief description of the real property affected thereby, and the time of filing the notice of lien; or unless an order be granted within one year from the filing of such notice by a court of record or a judge or justice thereof, continuing such lien, and such lien shall be redocketed as of the date of granting such order and a statement made that such lien is continued by virtue of such order. No lien shall be continued by such order for more than one year from the granting thereof, but a new order and entry may be made in each successive year. If a lienor is made a party defendant in an action to enforce another lien, and the plaintiff or such defendant has filed a notice of the pendency of the action within the time prescribed in this section, the lien of such defendant is thereby continued. Such action shall be deemed an action to enforce the lien of such defendant lienor. The failure to file a notice of pendency of action shall not abate the action as to any person liable for the payment of the debt specified in the notice of lien, and the action may be prosecuted to judgment against such person. The provisions of this section in regard to continuing liens shall apply to liens discharged by deposit or by order on the filing of an undertaking. Where a lien is discharged by deposit or by order, a notice of pendency of action shall not be filed.

§ 10. Section eighteen of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 18. Duration of lien under contract for a public improvement. If the lien is for labor done or materials furnished for a public improvement, it shall not continue for a longer period than three months from the time of filing the notice of such lien, unless an action is commenced to foreclose such lien within that time, and a notice of the pendency of such action is filed with the comptroller of the state or the financial officer of the municipal corporation with whom the notice of such lien was filed, or unless an order be made by a court of record, continuing such lien, and a new docket be made stating such fact. And the supreme court of this state, or any justice thereof, or the county court of the county in which such lien was filed, or the county judge of such county, are hereby authorized to make an order continuing any such liens for a period not exceeding six months, upon the application of a lienor upon such affidavits or evidence as in the opinion of such court or judge shall be deemed sufficient. Nothing in this section contained, however, shall prevent any such court or judge from making a new order continuing such lien in each succeeding six months, if in the discretion of such court or judge the same shall be deemed just and equitable. If a lienor be made a party defendant in an action to enforce another lien, and the plaintiff or such defendant has filed a notice of the pendency of the action within the time prescribed in this section, the lien of such defendant is thereby continued. The provisions of this section in regard to continuing liens shall apply to liens discharged by deposit or by order on the filing of an undertaking, but in such cases no redocketing shall be necessary, but on the original docket an entry shall be made of the continuance by such order. This section is hereby declared to be a remedial statute and is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interests and purposes thereof.

§ 11. Section nineteen of such chapter, as amended by chapters two hundred and forty and four hundred and twenty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 19. Discharge of lien generally. A lien other than a lien for labor performed or materials furnished for a public improvement specified in this article, may be discharged as follows:

1. By the certificate of the lienor, duly acknowledged or proved and filed in the office where the notice of lien is filed, stating that the lien is satisfied and may be discharged.

2. By failure to begin an action to foreclose such lien or to secure an order continuing it, within one year from the time of filing the notice of lien, unless an action be begun within the same period to foreclose a mortgage or another mechanic's lien upon the same property or any part thereof and a notice of pendency of such action is filed according to law.

3. By order of the court vacating or canceling such lien of record, for neglect of the lienor to prosecute the same, granted pursuant to section fifty-nine of this chapter.

4. Either before or after the beginning of an action by the owner or contractor executing an undertaking with two or more sufficient sureties, who shall be freeholders, to the clerk of the county where the premises are situated, in such sums as the court or a judge or justice thereof may direct, not less than the amount claimed in the notice of lien conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be rendered against the property for the enforcement of the lien. The sureties must together justify in at least double the sum named in the undertaking. A copy of the undertaking, with notice that the sureties will justify before the court, or a judge or justice thereof, at the time and place therein mentioned, must be served upon the lienor or his attorney, not less than five days before such time. Upon the approval of the undertaking by the court, judge or justice an order shall be made by such court, judge or justice discharging such lien. The execution of any such bond or undertaking by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this state to transact business, shall be equivalent to the execution of said bond or undertaking by two sureties; and where a certificate of solvency has been issued by the superintendent of insurance under the provisions of section one hundred and eighty-one of the insurance law, and has not been revoked, no justification or notice thereof shall be necessary, and in such case a copy of the undertaking and notice of the application for an order to discharge the lien must be served upon the lienor or his attorney not less than two days before such application for such order is made. Any such company may execute any such bond or undertaking as surety by the hand of its officers, or attorney, duly authorized thereto by resolution of its board of directors, a certified copy of which resolution, under the seal of said company, shall be filed with each bond or undertaking. If the lienor cannot be found, or does not appear by attorney, such service may be made by leaving a copy of said undertaking and notice at the lienor's place of residence, or if a corporation at its principal place of business within the state as stated in the notice of lien, with a person of suitable age and discretion therein, or if the house of his abode or its place of business is not stated in said notice of lien and is not known, then in such manner as the court may direct. The premises, if any, described in the notice of lien as the lienor's residence or place of business shall be deemed to be his said residence or its place of business for the purposes of said service at the time thereof, unless it is shown affirmatively that the person serving the papers or directing the service had knowledge to the contrary.

§ 12. Subdivision five of section twenty-one of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven and amended by chapter two hundred and sixty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and fourteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

5. Either before or after the beginning of an action by a contractor executing an undertaking with two or more sufficient sureties, who shall be freeholders, to the state or the municipal corporation with which the notice or lien is filed, in such sums as the court or a judge or justice thereof may direct, not less than the amount claimed in the notice of lien, conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be recovered in an action to enforce the lien. The sureties must together justify in at least double the sum named in the undertaking. A copy of the undertaking with notice that the sureties will justify before the court or a judge or justice thereof at the time and place therein mentioned must be served upon the lienor, not less than five days before such time. If the lienor cannot be found, such service may be made as prescribed in subdivision four of section nineteen of this article. Upon the approval of the undertaking by the court, judge or justice, an order shall be made discharging such lien. The execution of such undertaking by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this state to transact business shall be equivalent to the execution of such an undertaking by two sureties, and where a certificate of solvency has been issued by the superintendent of insurance under the provisions of section one hundred and eighty-one of the insurance law and has not been revoked, no justification or notice thereof shall be necessary, and in such case a copy of the undertaking and notice of the application for an order to discharge the lien must be served upon the lienor, or his attorney, not less than two days before such application for such order is made. Any such company may execute such undertaking as surety by the hand of its officers or attorney duly authorized thereto by resolution of its board of directors, a certified copy of which resolution under the seal of such company, shall be filed with each undertaking. Except as otherwise provided herein the provisions of article five of title six of chapter eight of the code of civil procedure are applicable to an undertaking given for the discharge of a lien on account of public improvements. If the lienor cannot be found or does not appear by attorney then such service may be made as prescribed in subdivision four of section nineteen of this chapter for the service of an undertaking with notice of justification of sureties.

§ 13. Section twenty-two of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 22. Building loan contract. A contract for a building loan, either with or without the sale of land, and any modification thereof, must be in writing and duly acknowledged, and within ten days after its execution be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which any part of the land is situated, and the same shall not be filed in the register's office of any county. If not so filed the interest of each party to such contract in the real property affected thereby, is subject to the lien and claim of a person who shall thereafter file a notice of lien under this chapter. A modification of such contract shall not affect or impair the right or interest of a person, who, previous to the filing of such modification had furnished or contracted to furnish materials, or had performed or contracted to perform labor for the improvement of real property, but such right or interest shall be determined by the original contract. The county clerk is entitled to a fee of twenty cents for filing such a contract or modification. Such contracts and modifications thereof shall be indexed in a book provided for that purpose, in the alphabetical order of the names of the persons to whom such loans shall be made. No assignment of the moneys due or to become due under a contract for a building loan, under the provisions of section twenty-six of this article, nor any payment to the holders of such assignment, shall be or be construed to be a modification of a contract for a building loan within the meaning of this section, and the execution and delivery of a bond and mortgage, under the provisions of section twenty-six of this article, or payments thereunder, shall not be or be construed to be the making of a contract for a building loan within the meaning of this section.

§ 14. Section twenty-five of such chapter, as re-enacted by chapter eight hundred and seventy-three of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 25. Priority of liens for public improvements. Persons having liens under contracts for public improvements shall have priority according to the date of filing their respective liens, except as in this article hereinafter provided, but in all cases laborers for daily or weekly wages shall have preference over all other lienors having liens arising under the same contracts pursuant to this article, without reference to the time when such laborers shall have filed their notice of lien. All liens shall have priority over advances made after the filing thereof, upon any assignment of the moneys, or any part thereof, due or to become due under such contract, or upon any order drawn by the contractor for the payment of such moneys, or any part thereof; but this provision shall not relate to advances made under an assignment to one or more persons or a corporation as trustee or trustees to which approval has been given as provided in section twenty-seven of this chapter.

§ 15. Section fifty-six of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 56. Preference over contractors. When a laborer, subcontractor or material man shall perform labor or furnish materials for an improvement of real property or for a public improvement, for which he is entitled to a mechanic's lien, the amount due to him shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such property or out of the moneys of the state or municipal corporation applicable to the construction of the public improvement, under any judgment rendered pursuant to this article, in the order of priority of his lien, before any part of such proceeds is paid to the person for whom he has performed such labor or furnished such materials. If several notices of lien are filed for the same claim, as where the contractor has filed a notice of lien, for the services of his workmen, and the workmen have also filed notices of lien, the judgment shall provide for but one payment of the claim which shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto in the order of priority. Payment voluntarily made upon any claim filed as a lien shall not impair or diminish the lien of any person except the person to whom the payment was made.

§ 16. Such chapter is hereby amended by adding at the end of article two, eight new sections, to be sections twenty-six to thirty-three, inclusive, to read, respectively, as follows:

§ 26. Subordination of liens after agreement with owner. In case an owner of real property shall execute to one or more persons, or a corporation, as trustee or trustees, a bond and mortgage affecting such property in whole or in part, or an assignment of the moneys due or to become due under a contract for a building loan in relation to such property, and in case such mortgage, if any, shall be recorded in the office of the register of the county where such real property is situated, or if such county has no register then in the office of the clerk of such county, and in case such assignment, if any, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county where such real property is situated; and in case lienors having mechanic's liens against said real property, or any part thereof, filed up to and not later than fifteen days after the recording of such mortgage or the filing of such assignment, and which liens have not been discharged as in this article provided, shall, to the extent of at least seventy-five per centum of the aggregate amount for which such liens have been so filed, approve such bond and mortgage, if any, and such assignment, if any, by an instrument or instruments in writing, duly acknowledged and filed in the office of such county clerk, then all mechanic's liens affecting such property or any part thereof, whether theretofore or thereafter filed and which have not been discharged as in this article provided, shall be subordinate to the lien of such trust bond and mortgage to the extent of the aggregate amount of all certificates of interest therein issued by such trustee or trustees, or their successors, for moneys loaned, materials furnished, labor performed and any other indebtedness incurred after said trust mortgage shall have been recorded, and for expenses in connection with said trust mortgage, and shall also be subordinate to the lien of the bond and mortgage given to secure the amount agreed to be advanced under such contract for a building loan to the extent of the amount which shall be advanced by the holder of such bond and mortgage to the trustee or trustees, or their successors, under such assignment and, from the date of the filing of such approval the respective mechanics' lienors, except those whose liens have been discharged as in this article provided, shall have no priority over each other with respect of their several liens, and their liens shall thenceforth be of equal priority, except that from the date of the filing of such approval all liens filed subsequent to the day preceding the day on which is commenced a trial in a court of record of an action to foreclose or enforce a mechanic's lien affecting such real property, shall be subordinate to the mechanics' liens filed prior thereto. The provisions of this section shall apply to all bonds and mortgages and all assignments of moneys due, or to become due under contracts for building loans, executed by such owner, in like manner, and recorded or filed, from time to time as hereinbefore provided. In case of an assignment to trustees under the provisions of this section, the trustees and their successors shall be the agents of the assignor to receive and receipt for any and all sums advanced by the holder of the building loan bond and mortgage under the building loan contract and such assignment. No lienor shall have any priority over the bond and mortgage given to secure the money agreed to be advanced under a building loan contract or over the advances made thereunder, by reason of any act preceding the making and approval of such assignment.

§ 27. Subordination of liens after agreement with contractor. In case a contractor shall execute to one or more persons, or a corporation, as trustee or trustees, an assignment in writing of the moneys due and to grow due under his contract with the owner of real property, or with the state, or with a municipal corporation, and in case such assignment is filed in the office of the clerk of the county where such real property is situated, or with the comptroller of the state, or with the financial officer of the municipal corporation; and in case lienors having mechanic's liens against said real property, or any part thereof, or upon the moneys of the state or of such municipal corporation applicable to the construction of the public improvement, and which liens are also against such contractor or any subcontractor under him, filed up to and not later than fifteen days after the filing of such assignment, and which liens have not been discharged as in this article provided, shall, to the extent of at least seventy-five per centum of the aggregate amount for which such liens have been so filed, approve such assignment by an instrument or instruments in writing, duly acknowledged, and filed in the office or offices where such assignment shall have been filed as hereinbefore provided, then all such mechanic's liens affecting such property or any part thereof, or such moneys of the state, or of such municipal corporation, whether theretofore or thereafter filed and which liens have not been discharged as in this article provided shall be subordinate to such assignment and from the date of the filing of such approval the respective mechanics' lienors, except those whose liens have been discharged as in this article provided, shall have no priority over each other with respect of their several liens, and their liens shall thenceforth be of equal priority, except that from the date of the filing of such approval all liens filed subsequent to the day preceding the day on which is commenced a trial in a court of record of an action to foreclose or enforce a mechanic's lien affecting such real property, shall be subordinate to the mechanics' liens filed prior thereto. Such assignment, however, shall be valid only for an amount equal to the aggregate amount which may be paid or incurred by the trustee or trustees, or their successors, in completing such contract. The certificate in writing of such trustee or trustees or their successors, to the owner, or to the state, or to such municipal corporation, certifying the amount paid or incurred by him or them toward the completion of such contract shall be final and conclusive.

§ 28. Lien of certain judgments postponed. Upon the filing of the written instrument or instruments of approval under section twenty-six or twenty-seven of this article, the lien of all money judgments and attachments affecting such real property, or the moneys due under a contract, and all claims and liens acquired in any proceedings upon any money judgment, shall be subordinate in like manner and to like extent as provided in said sections, respectively, for the subordination of mechanic's liens, and in that case all money judgments recovered upon claims for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property or for the public improvement, shall thenceforth be of equal priority with all mechanic's liens on such property, or on the moneys applicable to the construction of such public improvement, filed prior to the day on which is commenced a trial in a court of record of an action to foreclose or enforce a mechanic's lien affecting such real property or the moneys applicable to the construction of such public improvement; and any attachment issued or money judgment recovered upon a claim, which, in whole or in part, was not for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property or for the public improvement, shall be subordinate to all mechanic's liens thereon and shall also be subordinate to all judgments recovered upon claims for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property.

§ 29. Subordination of liens to subsequent mortgage. In case an owner of real property against which, or any part of which, mechanic's liens have been filed, desires to obtain a loan by executing and delivering a bond and mortgage affecting such real property, or any part thereof, as security therefor, and in case lienors having mechanic's liens against such real property, or any part thereof, filed prior to the recording of such mortgage, and which said liens have not been discharged as in this article provided, shall, to the extent of at least seventy-five per centum of the aggregate amount for which such liens have been so filed, by an instrument or instruments in writing, duly acknowledged, designate and authorize one or more persons to consent to the execution and delivery of such bond and mortgage, and in case the consent in writing, duly acknowledged, of such person or persons to the execution and delivery of such bond and mortgage shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county where such real property is situated, together with such instrument or instruments of designation, then all mechanic's liens affecting such real property, or any part thereof, whether theretofore or thereafter filed, shall be subordinate to the lien of such bond and mortgage to the extent of the full amount which shall be advanced thereunder and from the date of the filing of such approval the respective mechanics' lienors, except those whose liens have been discharged as in this article provided, shall have no priority over each other with respect of their several liens, and their liens shall thenceforth be of equal priority, except that from the date of the filing of such approval all liens filed subsequent to the day preceding the day on which is commenced a trial in a court of record of an action to foreclose or enforce a mechanic's lien affecting such real property, shall be subordinate to the mechanics' liens filed prior thereto. In case such person or persons so designated and authorized shall so consent to the execution and delivery of such bond and mortgage but on condition that a sum of money be deposited with the clerk of such county, and such sum is so deposited, the county clerk, upon such payment, shall forthwith enter upon the lien docket, indexed to the name of the owner, the facts relating to such payment. A deposit of money made as prescribed in this section shall be repaid to such owner or his assignee upon the discharge or release of all mechanic's liens, judgments and attachments against the property. All deposits of money made as provided in this section shall be considered as paid into court and shall be subject to the provisions of the code of civil procedure relative to the payment of money into court and the surrender of such money by order of the court. The court shall in any action brought to foreclose any of such liens or recover such deposit or any part thereof, direct the payment of such sum so deposited to the persons whose mechanic's liens, judgments or claims secured by attachment shall have been established upon the trial, and the amount so paid shall be credited upon such mechanic's liens, judgments and claims. Upon such deposit being made as hereinbefore provided the lien of all judgments and attachments affecting such real property, and all claims and liens acquired in any proceedings upon such judgments or under attachments shall be liens upon such deposit of equal priority with such mechanic's liens, except that all judgments recovered upon and attachments issued upon a claim which, in whole or in part, is not for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property, shall be subordinate as a lien upon such sum as deposited to all mechanic's liens thereon, and shall also be subordinate to all judgments recovered upon and attachments issued upon claims for materials furnished, labor performed or moneys advanced for the improvement of such real property. In case such consent shall be conditioned also for the giving to one or more persons or a corporation as trustee or trustees any other property real or personal then any cash thereafter from time to time tendered by such trustee or trustees to such county clerk shall be received and held by such county clerk as though the same were part of the specified sum of money for the deposit of which such consent was conditioned, and for the same purposes and subject to the same provisions as in this section provided therefor.

§ 30. Certain liens and claims not to be affected. The amendments contained in this act except section sixty-four shall not apply to mechanic's liens, attachments, judgments, or to claims or liens acquired in any action or proceeding upon such mechanic's liens, attachments or judgments, filed, docketed, entered or obtained prior to the date when this article, as amended, takes effect.

§ 33. Certain sections not to apply to laborers' liens. None of the provisions contained in sections twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty-one of this article shall apply to liens of laborers for daily or weekly wages.

§ 17. Such chapter is hereby amended by adding at the end of article three three new sections, to be sections sixty-two to sixty-four, inclusive, to read as follows:

§ 62. Bringing in new parties. Where a lienor who has filed a lien after the commencement of an action and at any time up to and including the day preceding the day on which is commenced the trial in a court of record of an action to foreclose or enforce a mechanic's lien, makes application to be made a party, the court must direct him to be brought in by amendment or, if the application be made by any other person to make such lienor a party, the court may in its discretion direct him to be brought in by amendment. The order to be entered on such application shall provide as to the time and manner of service of his pleading and the court shall in such order direct the pleadings, papers and proceedings of the other several parties, shall be deemed amended, so as not to require the making or serving of papers other than said order to accomplish the amendment, and that the allegations in the answer of the lienor brought in shall, for the purposes of the action, be deemed denied by the other parties to the action. The action shall be so conducted by the court as not to cause substantially any delay in the action being tried by reason of such lienor being made a party. The bringing in of such party shall be without prejudice to any of the proceedings had and if the action be on any calendar of any court it shall retain its place on such calendar and the note of issue and the notices of trial under which such case shall be on any calendar shall not be affected, nor any further notice of trial required by reason of such lienor being made a party.

§ 63. Service of answer on state or municipal corporation. In an action to foreclose a lien for a public improvement each defendant named in the original summons shall within forty days after the service of the complaint on him serve upon the state or municipal corporation, a copy of his answer or demurrer. When the city of New York is a party such service shall be made on the corporation counsel.

§ 64. Award of personal judgment by court or referee. A court or referee in any action heretofore or hereafter brought may at any time award a money judgment in favor of any party. This shall not preclude the rendition of other judgments in the action. Any payment made on account of either judgment in favor of a party shall be credited on the other judgment.

§ 18. This act shall take effect July first, nineteen hundred and sixteen.

LAWS OF NEW YORK—By Authority.

CHAP. 598.

AN ACT to amend the code of civil procedure, in relation to actions against a nonresident, upon a demand barred by the law of his residence.

Became a law May 15, 1916, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section three hundred and ninety of the code of civil procedure is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 390. Action against a nonresident, upon a demand barred by the law of his residence. Where a cause of action, which does not involve the title to or possession of real property within the state, accrues against a person, who is not then a resident of the state, an action cannot be brought thereon in a court of the state, against him or his personal representative, after the expiration of the time, limited, by the laws of his residence, for bringing a like action, provided that if the limitation of the time fixed by the laws of his residence for bringing such action be less than the time fixed by the laws of this state for a like action, the limitation fixed by the laws of this state shall apply. This section shall not apply to a case in which a person is entitled, when this section as amended takes effect, to commence such action, where he commences the same before the expiration of six months after this section as amended takes effect; in which case the provisions of law applicable thereto immediately before this section as amended takes effect shall continue to be so applicable, notwithstanding the repeal thereof.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

MAN-EATER KILLED NEAR KEYPORT

Shark Was Eleven Feet in Length and Part of a Human Body Was Found in its Stomach.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 13.—A shark in whose stomach was part of a human body, was killed this afternoon in Matawan Creek, New Jersey, not far from the spot where a man and a boy were killed by a shark yesterday.

The man eater was eleven feet long and weighed over 300 pounds.

The body in the shark's stomach is believed to have been that of Lester Stillwell, the 12-year-old boy, who was dragged to his death while bathing at Matawan on Wednesday. The other victim was Stanley Fisher, who was attacked while trying to recover the Stillwell boy's body.

The shark was killed near Keyport. As soon as it had been put to death it was ripped open and its stomach examined.

Shark hunting has been in progress all along the Jersey coast since yesterday.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Patrick H. Carey, who for the past 12 years has been employed at the Hotel Bauer, died on Wednesday at the home of his son, James E. Carey, clerk of the Hotel Stuyvesant. Mr. Carey was born 77 years ago in Troy, N. Y., where at one time he conducted a business and later was elected alderman. He was also interested in sporting events and his remarkable memory enabled him to relate with interest both the political and social conditions as they existed fifty or more years ago in Troy. He will still be remembered by many old time Trojan's. He was also personally acquainted with the late Russell Sage, long before the great financier accumulated his millions. "Pop", as his friends loved to call him, will be surely missed by his colleagues and the traveling public, who knew him well. The funeral will be held from his son's residence, 578 Broadway, on Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Joseph's Church at 9 o'clock. Have a Cheery Kitchen.

One should bear in mind that the kitchen is the engine room of the home, and the comfort and happiness of the family depend upon its running smoothly and well. Lack of system, inadequate equipment, inconvenient arrangement of furniture and utensils and the total absence of beauty and cheer are the things that make drudgery of housework. Servants are as susceptible to surroundings as their mistresses, and the little aids to housework, such as cheerful aspect and pretty furnishings, do much to secure a more loyal interest and co-operation. A harmonious environment in a kitchen will go a long way toward making a happy home.—Harriet Sisson Gillespie in Mother's Magazine.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 13.—The market showed a stronger tone at the opening today and there were only a few declines recorded. Willys-Overland was an exception to the strength, starting nearly two points lower, then rallying a point, and then losing the gain. After starting nearly a point lower, Studebaker advanced 1½ to 126⅝ but later receded again to yesterday's final figure of 126½. Chesapeake and Ohio started 3 higher at 62¼. Rock Island ⅝ to 20⅜, Great Northern preferred ¼ to 119¼, and Union Pacific ¼ to 138⅜. Reading opened at 97 and then declined to 96¾ against 96½ at the close Wednesday. There was urgent covering of shorts in Industrial Alcohol, which opened up 2½ to 103½, rose ½ further and then reacted a point. Crucible Steel reflected further accumulation, advancing 1⅜ to 71½. Gains of about ¼ were recorded in Kennicott, Steel Common, Marine pfd., Colorado Fuel and Iron and many other issues. Pennsylvania lost ⅝ at the start to 57 but later recovered part of this loss.

Price movements in the late forenoon were irregular, with firmness noted in the standard issues, while many of the specialties were weak and declined sharply, under heavy realizing sales. Industrial Alcohol, after selling as high as 104½, dropped to 97¾, a new low record. United Fruit sold at 154 against 152½ at the close yesterday. Stocks like Anaconda, Steel Common and Union Pacific generally showed fractional net gains. Marine Pfd. moved up to 83⅛. Crucible Steel reacted to 69½, and Westinghouse showed a net loss of 1¾ to 54. Money loaning at 4 per cent.

Pronounced weakness developed in the late afternoon as a result of renewed pressure and substantial losses were sustained in nearly all the active issues, Steel Common declining to 85⅜, against 85, the early high price. Mexican Petroleum dropped from 100¼ to 96; United Fruit from 156 to 151¼; Marine Preferred from 82¼ to 81; Reading from 97½ to 95¼; Baldwin Locomotive from 71½ to 68¼; Crucible Steel from 71½ to 66¼; Studebaker from 127¼ to 120½, and Maxwell Motor from 74½ to 69. St. Paul, after selling at 97½, reacted to 95⅞. Substantial losses were recorded in many other issues, including some of the copper stocks.

The tone at the close was heavy. The bears made a fresh drive at the market late in the day, and in the final dealings declines ranged from 4 to 7 points, with the greatest loss in Willys-Overland. There were a few slight recoveries from the lowest. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds dull and heavy.

Gave Her Away.

Little daughter was visiting her grandmother and Aunt Marie. Marie is quite popular and has a number of admirers. It so happened that a dark-haired young man called one evening and a light-haired young man called the following evening. Little daughter greeted caller No. 2 with "Why, you were here last evening, but you had black hair."

SECRETS OF SPACE

What Might Be Revealed If Nature Lifted the Veil.

WONDERS OF THE INVISIBLE.

Evidence That What We Call the Universe Is Only a Part of a Far Grander and Perhaps Infinite System of Suns and Worlds and Planets.

Men of science have found reasons for believing that there may be, far off in infinite space, other material systems besides the one visible to us. We seem to be able with modern telescopes to reach the boundaries or farthest limits of the stellar system to which our sun belongs.

It is found that with increase of distance the relative number of stars decreases until, in most directions at least, a point is reached beyond which virtually no more stars can be seen. Then, too, it has been found that the stellar system has a fairly definite shape—a fact which in itself implies boundaries. The shape is that of a vast spiral, with curving arms surrounding a central agglomeration. If you will imagine floating in the middle of the room where you sit a roughly globular swarm of bright particles, distributed with a fair degree of uniformity as to distance from one another, and then outside of the swarm surrounding it, but separated from it by a space which is nearly but not quite empty, an irregular spiral ring of similar shining particles, you will have before you a picture of one of the latest astronomical conceptions of the form of the visible universe.

The central swarm will represent the assemblage of stars of which our sun is a modest member, while the enveloping spiral will represent the immense system of the Milky way, whose stars are vastly more numerous than those composing the globular swarm. The stars of the Milky way are the most distant members of the entire system, which appears to be shut in all around by black space. Viewed from afar off in the ebon depths of that space, this universe of ours would resemble a phosphorescent jellyfish, with faintly sparkling tentacles, afloat in the sea of immensity.

This being so, the question naturally arises, May there not be, or must there not be, an indefinite number of other such systems scattered through the limitless expanse of space? That question would forever remain a matter of pure conjecture if we did not have certain very suggestive facts which seem to indicate that it ought to be answered in the affirmative.

The facts of which I speak are objects of visual observation. But that does not necessarily make them parts of the "visible universe," because they appear to be unconnected with it and to lie beyond its boundaries.

These objects are known as spiral nebulae. The photographs that have been made of them in the past few years are simply amazing. The forms of many are surprisingly like that which has been described above as characterizing the stellar system. They have central agglomerations with enveloping spirals. They have knots of light which recall the globular clusters of stars found in the visible universe, but they are so distant that no separate stars can be detected in them.

They look like masses of more or less condensed glowing gas, but the spectroscope shows that the light coming from them is not that which is characteristic of gaseous nebulae, but that which belongs to true stars. The influence is that these wonderful objects may actually be other universes lying out in the ocean of space beyond our shores.

This inference is strengthened by what we know of the distance of some of these objects. The utmost diameter of the great spiral of the Milky way probably does not exceed from 4,000 to 6,000 "parsecs," or from 800 to 1,200 million times the earth's distance from the sun. A parsec, which corresponds to a parallax of one second of arc, equals about 19,000,000,000,000 (nineteen trillion) miles. But some of the spiral nebulae appear to be at least 10,000 parsecs distant.

If that is so there exists between them and the outer frontiers of the visible universe a gap far broader than the entire diameter of that universe. It can hardly be supposed, then, that they are outlying parts of or attendants upon our universe, but it is much more reasonable to conclude that they are other universes constructed on a similar plan, but so far away that as viewed with our utmost visual powers, our mightiest telescopes, they are but gleaming specks! Perhaps the nearest of these strange objects is the Andromeda nebula, which, in a small telescope, looks like a faint spindle shaped wisp.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Vengeance on the Caddie.

"What! Buying more golf clubs? I thought you had a pretty complete outfit before."

"I have, but that caddie of mine had the nerve to snigger when I topped my drive yesterday, and I'm going to make him carry double weight."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Happiness.

Happiness is that single and glorious thing which is the very light and sum of the whole animated universe, and where she is not it is better that nothing should be.—Colton.

The most completely lost of all days is the one on which we have not laughed.—Chamfort.

Becoming.

The process of overcoming, of becoming, is no light achievement. The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in the task. In this warfare all living things are engaged; not man only, not the kindlier beasts only, but all that is capable of pain, that is of progress.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 13.—Oh, look who's here! Yep, Jim Coffey—the very same Jeems who temporarily retired from the pugilistic spotlight on account of an ailing jaw.

"I'm back—and I want to fight," bellows Jim. "I'll try conclusions any old time with Jack Dillon or anybody else. Dillon beat Moran and Moran beat me. That makes some people think I'd be easy for Jack. Well, I won't be. Moran was lucky in both those fights with me. He caught me at a time when I was growing and my legs weren't as steady as they are now.

"I've got my full growth now. I measure 6 feet 4 four inches. And I'm feeling better and stronger than at any time in my life. I quit the ring temporarily after Moran beat me the second time because I wanted to wait until I had reached my full growth. Now I'm all right—and I want to fight anybody that will fight me.

"My Legs Were Weak."—Coffey.

"Some people think that Moran won on account of a weak jaw. That wasn't it at all. It was on account of my legs. They weren't strong and therefore, whenever I was hit I couldn't get back my balance very easily. Then the other fellow would wallop me again and unsteady me still more. The growing process took all the strength out of my legs. Now they are all right—and they don't wobble any more.

"My jaw is all right. Those who call it a glass jaw are wrong. No man ever knocked me cold. A lot of them have hit me and made me stagger—but it wasn't the jaw, I tell you. It was my legs. Moran is credited with two knockouts over me but in neither case could he put me down for the count.

"I'd like to take on Moran again—the sooner the better. But I don't think he'll fight me right away. So I am out for Dillon or Weinert. Sure, I'd like to get a crack at Willard, but I realize that no one would match me with him right away. I've been beaten twice by Moran and that counts against me as a drawing card. I must work my way up to the top again. And I'd like to start with Dillon."

Moran's Peculiar Luck.

It is more than passing strange how Frank Moran has been able to shake down the promoters for sizeable purses while men who have beaten him must fight for guarantees far smaller.

Jack Dillon whipped the blond Pittsburgher to a goiy pulp a brace of weeks ago. That ought to make Dillon a greater drawing card than Moran. But it hasn't. Dillon immediately after that fight took on Jim Flynn and the best he could get for his efforts was $2,000 or $3,000.

Moran, on the other hand, has been offered $7,500 to fight Carl Morris, and calmly ultimates "$10,000 or no fight." The chances are that Moran will get that $10,000—a sum four times greater than Dillon got after he beat up the sorrel-topped person.

Other Luck Instances.

Jim Savage [illegible] Moran some years ago—the only man that ever accomplished the trick. Jim's feat should have meant that in future he, and not Moran, would be the drawing card. But poor old Jim has been almost fightless during the past two years. The few battles he has had have netted him only a couple of hundred dollars each.

Gunboat Smith won from Moran in 20 rounds in Frisco. Smith put up a great fight; Moran's showing was miserable. He had nothing but gameness to recommend him. Judged by their relative showings in that battle, Smith was so much better as a hitter and a boxer that there was no comparison.

And what happened? Smith fought a few more battles and, somehow or other, things broke badly for him. Fortune didn't smile upon him, as it has on Moran. His ring earnings began to shrivel from thousands to hundreds per fight. During the past year Smith hasn't earned enough in the ring to buy himself a stylish flivver.

In the same year when Smith and Savage, the men who triumphed handily over Moran, earned a combined total of about $2,000, Moran gathered in something like $75,000. And Dillon, who also beat Moran, is still fighting for skinny purses while Moran is gathering in the big ones.

Ain't it odd, Oscar?

Hot Liners.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

Sure has been a disastrous week so far for the Yankees. The Indians threw them from the top perch with a double defeat yesterday.

Th Red Sox are blazing away. Four straight defeats handed the White Sox have checked the latter and put Carrigan's boys within two games of first place.

Rain helped the Giants yesterday. They won a 1 to 0 game, called at the end of the sixth, from the Reds.

The Tigers' bats were strong in the eighth inning and the Nationals were on the short end.

Four hits, two passes and three errors gave the Braves six runs in the eighth and a victory over the Pirates.

The Phillies are sticking close to the Dodgers. They walloped the Cubs again, while the Dodgers and Cards were idle.

The usual trimmings were handed the Athletics by the Browns.

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, July 13.—Fred. Carl and Joseph Heim, with their mother, Mrs. Joseph Heim, from Maspeth, L. I., are spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Weiser of Ulster Park. Fred Heim, a chemist, has done some wonderful chemical research work at his laboratory in his winter home. He has also done much lecturing on subjects concerning chemistry and bacteriology, especially on the presence of bacillus prypholactic peptolytigus and bacillus colon communens in milk. He also has isolated a compound which he claims to be diaminohydroxymethalamine.

A party of friends visited Mr. and Mrs. Weiser over the Fourth. The party consisted of Philip Bartel, with his wife and two daughters, Lilly and Elsie. Miss Elsie Bartel has just graduated from Hunter College, where she studied teaching defective children. Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Heinrick, Mr. and Mrs. F. Scholl and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leiter. All the men are members of Mr. Weiser's Lodge of the Free Masons.

Mrs. Joseph Hren and her daughter and Fred Gemke, visited here last Saturday.

Insurance a Luxury.

To an old darky haled before him, a southern judge put this question: "Why did you burn your house down just after getting it insured?" Whereupon the darky replied: "Yo' honah, a pore man like me can't afford to have a house and insurance, too."—Case and Comment.
